Court Upholds Death Penalty For Cook

EDMONTON (CP) — The appellate division of the Alberta Supreme Court Friday unanimously upheld the conviction and death sentence of Robert Raymond Cook, 23, for the murder of his father whose body was found 15 months ago in a rubble-filled garage grease pit at Stettler, Alta.

Also in the pit were the shot and bludgeoned bodies of Cook's wife and five children. Young Cook was first convicted of murder in December 1959. He won a new trial on appeal and again was convicted and sentenced to be hanged at Fort Saskatchewan jail Oct. 11.

Two Fugitives Recaptured

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. (CP) — Two men were recaptured Friday about six hours after they overpowered a guard and escaped from the town jail at Rocky Mountain House.

RCMP said Harold Rustin Capp, 22, and Darryl Wayne Lowry, 18, were traced by a tracking dog to a farm about 10 miles east of the town.

The men fled the jail on foot, taking with them a .22 calibre rifle.

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The Belgian government Friday announced the engagement of shy King Baudouin, 30, to a blonde Spanish noblewoman two years his senior.

The bride-to-be is Dona Fabiola de Mora y Aragon, 32, twin daughter of the late Count of Mora.

Premier Eyskens' disclosure of a secret romance touched off a wave of rejoicing in this kingdom that has not had a queen since beloved Queen Astrid, the king's mother, was killed in a car crash in 1935.

ROYAL RECEPTION

Hundreds of Belgians massed outside the royal palace of Laeken in hopes of viewing Dona Fabiola. But her first appearance was at a royal palace reception last night.

She will meet the press today, but Belgians rushed to buy newspapers and read every morsel of news about her they could find.

CHARITY WORK

They learned she is of noble Spanish lineage, a traveller, a linguist, a tennis player and a musician, has spent much time in charity work and has served as a nurse in an army hospital. Baudouin's chief of cabinet, Rene Lefebvre, said government and palace officials had learned the news with "great surprise."

NEVER LONG

"His majesty surrounded this romance with a veil of secrecy," he said. "It is impossible at this moment to fix a wedding date, but as you all know, royal engagements never last very long." The wedding may take place as early as November.

Lefebvre said he had "not the slightest idea" when the spectacled king met his bride

Red Jet Fighter Nearly Crashes British Airliner

BERLIN (UPI)—The captain of a British airliner said a Soviet jet fighter buzzed his plane and almost crashed into it yesterday as he was nearing West Berlin with 36 passengers in defiance of Communist threats to Berlin's air links with the West.

Passengers described the incident as "a near miss." The pilot, Capt. James Martin, filed a protest with the four-power Berlin air safety centre as soon as he landed at West Berlin's Tempelhof Airfield.

ON CHARTER

The plane was on charter to carry passengers into and out of Berlin.

The new Communist harassment came only hours after Mayor Willy Brandt warned the Communists against interfering with air traffic to isolated West Berlin. He said he issued the warning to prevent the East from making a "false estimate" of the political situation.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

"It should be recognized that whoever lays their hands on the air traffic to Berlin is playing with fire," he said in a speech in Frankfurt. His speech was believed prompted by Western fears the Soviet were considering harassing action in the three 20-mile-wide air corridors across Communist East Germany.

The stage for such interference could have been set by Maj. Gen. N. F. Zaharov, Berlin's Soviet commandant, who told the allies Tuesday they were "misusing" the air corridors in flying undesirable West Germans into Berlin. Pilots have reported unusual concentrations of Soviet aircraft along the routes.

4,500 FEET

The plane's pilot said he was flying passengers from Innsbruck, Austria, along the Frankfurt-Berlin corridor, and was at an altitude of 4,500 feet over the Soviet zone when a Russian plane, making a tight turn to land at Zerbst airfield veered toward his plane.

It was thought at first to be an accident, but Martin said it was a deliberate buzz and that it was the third time a plane he was flying had been buzzed in recent weeks. Martin said he had been buzzed before but "today was too close for comfort."

BY BICYCLE

"Next time I will travel to Berlin by bicycle," he said. "I really was shaken up."

The four power Berlin air safety centre to which he protested controls and regulates flights in the corridors to the city. It is one of the four power bodies on which the Soviets still are represented.

Special Cabinet Action Asked on Unemployment

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal Leader Ray Perrault asked Premier Bennett Friday to set up a special cabinet committee to deal with unemployment in B.C. in advance of the next legislature sitting. "The full effect of winter unemployment will be upon us in approximately six weeks," the newly elected member for North Vancouver said in a letter to Mr. Bennett, copies of which went to the press. "The matter cannot wait until the call of the legislature."

The cabinet committee should include representatives from municipalities, national agencies and charitable organizations, as well as Opposition party leaders, he said.

Mr. Perrault described the present job situation as "very discouraging," adding that "further sizable layoffs are imminent, especially in forestry."

Prince on Visit

Nation Paying For High Life

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada, thanks to government policies, is selling off its natural resources so that present-day Canadians may enjoy the high life to which they have become accustomed. Lt. Gen. Guy Simonds, former Canadian army chief of staff, said here Friday night.

Canada is facing the highest unemployment per capita in the world, and unemployment is becoming not a temporary problem but a serious disease, he said.

Hungry Canadians Call from Congo For More Food

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—The food shortage here is nearing the critical point, with UN forces holding 15 days supplies on hand and a UN officer saying he doesn't know when more food will arrive.

The low supply is affecting particularly the Canadian signals contingent, which is asking Canada to fly in such supplies as dehydrated potatoes, powdered milk and dried apples.

EIGHT DAYS

Canadian supplies are available for about eight days, including field ration packs. UN ration scales are described as "adequate" from the health standpoint.

Capt. Mike Kedziora, Canadian mess officer who "is running against a brick wall" in trying to get supplies, says the scale is not high enough for Canadians who for variety eat more and drink more liquids in hot and humid weather.

THIRD BELOW

The Canadians had at least six veal meals this week and no potatoes. A two-day calorie scale was at least a third below Canadian standards on a calorie basis.

The hungry Canadians fill up on bananas at two francs each out of the 43 franc daily "pittance" the UN provides. The signalmen received 645 francs ($13) Thursday for the first half of September.

Most of the Canadians are married and have assigned members of their pay to their families.

Reds Ready To Go

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Communist officials from eastern Europe Friday night started preparations to leave the Congo on renewed orders from the new Congolese Army strongman, Col. Joseph Mobutu. He said they must clear out before another nightfall.

Papers were burned in the courtyard of the Czech Embassy. Workmen then nailed covers on big wooden crates.

CARLOADS GO

Three carloads of Soviet officials left the Russian Embassy building. Other cars loaded with suitcases stood in the courtyard.

The Russians and their Communist allies had moved into the Congo in a big way following the Congo's independence from Belgium June 30.

OUTSIDE UN

They poured in men and equipment outside the United Nations Congo effort.

The collapse of the Communist venture came as Mobutu moved swiftly to consolidate his power.

ARRESTED?

Congolese troops arrested 20 members of Lumumba's personal staff at Lumumba's luxurious villa and there were reports the disputed premier had been arrested at a hideout in town.

Other reports received in Europe indicated Lumumba may have fled the Congo. But there was no confirmation.

Congo Crisis Debate Topic

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The security council, over Russia's negative vote, early today summoned the general assembly into emergency session on the Congo crisis.

The assembly was formally convened for 8 p.m. tonight. The decision came after the United States proposed the emergency session.

ILLEGAL DECISION

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin contended that a decision for such an emergency assembly session would be illegal unless all five permanent members of the council voted for it.

The vote was 8 to 2 (Russia and Poland) with France abstaining.

But Zorin made no move to have his negative vote placed on the record as a veto.

RESOLUTION VETOED

U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth made the proposal after Russia vetoed a resolution offered by Tunisia and Ceylon which was designed to avert an assembly showdown between the United States and Russia on the Congo.

Zorin, who cast the veto, accused the U.S. of demanding the emergency session as a stunt for its "pre-election period." He said it was necessary to convince the American people that the administration had taken a "hard position" and "shown firmness" on the Congo question.

NO LAURELS

"This will not deceive the American people and the special session will not produce any laurels for your propaganda and will bring you no satisfaction," the Russian said. Zorin said he would vote against the proposal. But in this case, Russia had no veto. Under the Acheson-Dulles "uniting for peace" resolution of 1950, the assembly may be called into special session by the vote of any seven members of the security council when action by that body on a war-and-peace question is blocked by a veto of one of its five permanent members.

BLOCK ACTION

Russia's veto, Wadsworth said, "just shows the length to which the Soviet Union will go" to block effective UN action in the Congo.

He repeated an earlier statement that the UN was "at the crossroads" in the Congo and must succeed in its effort.

"The Soviet Union does not want the United Nations to succeed in the Congo because it wants to create a satellite there," Wadsworth said.

90th NEGATIVE

The negative Russian vote, which was the 90th time the Soviet Union had used its veto power, killed the resolution.

Before voting on the Ceylonese-Tunisian measure, the council killed a Russian "no confidence" resolution directed against Dag Hammarskjold.

$30 Attack

Thief Grabs Purse

A youthful purse snatcher made off with about $30 after attacking a young woman last night on Richmond Avenue opposite Victoria University grounds.

Janet Spraggs, in her early 20s, of 1930 Mayfair, told police she was walking home about 9 p.m. after visiting a girl friend when she heard footsteps overtaking her.

She turned around in time to see a youth 14 or 15 years of age about five feet behind her.

The youth lunged for the purse. A struggle followed, the strap broke and the youth ran away with the purse leaving the woman holding the strap.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States Air Force successfully fired an Atlas missile 5,000 miles down the Atlantic missile range Friday in a test of a new nose cone designed to better protect hydrogen warheads.

The rocket reached peak speeds of 17,000 miles an hour as it raced to a target zone off the South Atlantic Island of Ascension in about 25 minutes.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"GIRLS carrying books," said the man who comes in to advise me on social problems. "Yes, they make a pretty sight," I acknowledged. "But why do you look so worried about it? You mean, the boys should be carrying the books for them, if they had any sense?"

"No. They have all these books loose, and in a crowded bus the books sometimes tumble on the floor and have to be picked up. Why shouldn't they carry their school books in a satchel? Just because of convention?"

"I didn't know there was any rule against satchels," I said.

"Well, there is. I asked some of these students why they didn't use satchels, and save themselves and other people a lot of trouble. And they said they would, if only someone else would start doing it first."

"A good point," I agreed.

"Supermarkets," said my friend, consulting a small black notebook in which he jots down criticisms of our economy and our social order as they pop into his mind.

"Supermarkets, eh?" I observed, to keep the conversation going.

"When you go into a supermarket, you always buy more than you had intended, because the goods are so cunningly displayed."

"That's what some people call smart merchandising," I observed.

"The small merchant hasn't the space to do it."

"But his prices are sometimes higher."

"Not always," my friend said. "Then there's delivery service."

"You can't get delivery service and credit service for cash and carry prices," I argued. "But I suppose we should counter smart merchandising with smart buying, or you might call it customerizing."

My friend flipped over another page of his notebook.

"Too many gas stations, hamburger stands and laundromats," he said abruptly.

"I agree on the gas stations," I said. "But after all, we live under the free enterprise system, where any man has the right to open a gas station as long as he is the sales manager of an oil company. And competition is healthy, providing that we can keep out the rascals who want to cut prices and spoil business for legitimate operators."

"Too many laundromats as well," he said.

"I'm not sure of that," I said. "You know, another fellow on the paper and I used to be always hatching plans for some kind of business we could run on the side, or have our wives run it, to bring in an extra income. The laundromat—that was one of them. Ten years ago we were talking about it."

"The trouble was, we never quite raised the capital. Five dollars and 98 cents just wasn't enough. Now you say there are too many laundromats. I'm sure there still are some places that need them."

"Haven't you noticed," my friend said, "that there seldom are more than two or three people in these laundromats? Now, here's another thing. Do you know how a rat carries an egg?"

"Never had the chance to observe," I said. "I wouldn't have believed it," my informant said. "I caught them robbing the nests in my own chicken house. One rat grasps the egg in all four paws and lies down on its back. The other rat pulls the egg-carrying rat along by the tail. This provides a soft cushion so that the egg doesn't get broken."

"Very nearly believable," I commented.

"It's true," he said. "Have you ever stopped to consider that the word 'Sale' is meaningless? Write that down. 'Sale' meaningless."

"Got it in my head," I observed. "But there are genuine sales."

"One store rented a building that they knew was due to be torn down on a certain date. Then they had a sale and plastered the building with posters saying: 'Everything must go! Sacrifice! Building being torn down. Forced to vacate.'"

"Ah yes," I said.

"One more thing. These sightseeing trolley-hops, pulled by horses. You know how small boys climb on the back steps and take a free ride. They get a lot of fun out of it—chiefly because they think they are getting away with something."

"If they only knew it, though," he continued, "the driver can see them reflected in the glass fronts of stores. When he thinks there are too many of them, he stops the trolley-ho and scrapes them off."

"You are a shrewd observer," I said, and held the swinging door open for my informant, who slipped his notebook in his pocket as he bid me goodbye.

Fleeing Car Clocked at 85

Object of a high-speed chase along Fort and Cadboro Bay Road into Oak Bay late Thursday, Robert J. Wright, 1159 North Park, pleaded guilty in city police court yesterday to a charge of criminally negligent driving.

He was fined $100 on that charge, and another $25 for having no current driver's licence.

Motorcycle Constable W. G. Rule said a chase began at Oak Bay Junction and continued east along Fort, where Wright went through an amber light at Richmond and a red light at Foul Bay.

From there Const. Rule made a pace on the fleeing car, which stopped at East-downe, and found the speed had been 85 miles an hour.

Hershel Alister Smith, 2770 Thorpe, was fined $50 when he pleaded guilty in Colwood court yesterday to a charge of careless driving.

Police said his car suddenly swerved from the highway near the Thetis Underpass lights and struck a pedestrian walking properly alongside the road.

Pedestrian Sherry Streeton, 16, of 415 Island Highway, escaped with bruises.

Fined $20 each in city court after pleading guilty to being minors in possession of liquor were Gerald Morris Ridings, 944 Darwin; Robert Alexander Faulds, 1610 Fernwood; and Ernest William Emmot, HMCS Jonquiere.

George Yakonovich, 329 Huntington Place, was fined $200 in Central Saanich police court for supplying liquor to a minor.

'Large Stomach' On Small Man Real Problem

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Mr. Molner: I am in my early 40's. I have a large stomach and have tried everything to make it flat. I have been to doctors and have taken all the pills prescribed by them."

"I have dieted and I get plenty of exercise. I've had X-rays and nothing seems to be wrong with my stomach. I am 5 feet 3 and weigh 136 pounds. I hope you will be of some help to me.—O.K.M."

I hope I may be of some help to you, too, but I'm not very optimistic. At 53, I'd say you weigh a bit more than you should. You say you get

Slipped Epiphysis

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is a slipped epiphysis? Can it be cured or treated? And how?—A.B."

An epiphysis is the end of a growing bone, which at the proper time hardens and unites with the rest of the bone of which it will be a part in adulthood.

In other words, this is a problem which affects growing youngsters, and the "slipping" or misplacement of this growing portion is something that occurs much more often

Cause of Pinworms

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes pinworms in the body? I am 38 and have had this trouble for six months. Our doctor prescribed medication which relieved the condition but after a month or so it recurs. Would it be caused by food, drink or a hernia that I have.—Mrs. J.L."

No, not from a hernia, and not from food or drink as such.

There is just one cause of pinworms. You swallowed some of the eggs which are so tiny that you have scant chance of seeing them under any circumstances.

Medicine can get rid of worms—but remember that the worms have produced more of the almost invisible eggs. (It is not at all uncommon to require two or more courses of medication to get rid of the worms.)

Sun's Rays Sow Cancer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Sunshine from lamps and X-rays are reaping a harvest of cancers, a Baltimore surgeon warned Thursday.

Children are getting thyroid cancers after needless X-raying to treat tonsils, pimples or enlarged lymph glands.

Too much sunbathing is causing skin cancers.

That also goes, said Dr. Milton T. Edgerton, for the business executive who overdoes the sunlamp at his club and "the young woman who now can afford a winter Florida vacation after spending all summer in the sun."

He told of "resurfacing with skin grafts" the cancer-riddled faces of businessmen who for years had taken long, daily

He declared there now is definite evidence that 80 per cent of children with thyroid cancers had previously had X-ray treatments which exposed their thyroid glands.

Candidates Hit Campaign Trail

'Surplus' Answer Broached

GUTHRIE CENTER, Iowa (UPI)—Vice-President Nixon took aim on the U.S. farm belt vote Friday with a four-year "pay-more-now" plan to cut farm surpluses which would cost up to $1,000,000,000 a year.

But he told 25,000 farmers, attending the Iowa plowing contest, as he told a union convention Thursday in St. Louis, his words "may not be all you want to hear."

NO ILLUSIONS

"Let's have no illusions about that at the outset," Nixon said. Let me tell you there are no easy solutions."

With a jibe at Sen. John Kennedy, he added: "Everything I say are words I have written and have not been written for me. They may not be all the things you want to hear but they will be proposals I think will help and that I think will work."

OFF THE BACK

Nixon's "pay-more-now" proposal, based on the theory that taking the farm surplus "off the back" of farmers and taxpayers will save money later, drew only polite applause.

He got no applause when he attacked Kennedy's farm proposals as a "return to discredited, old programs which have never worked."

The "Operation Consume" plan, most specific single program Nixon has yet offered, called for:

- Sharp intensification of the food for peace program.
  - Creation of a strategic food storage reserve, storing food for long periods — with fresh replacements as needed — for use in great emergencies such as "an enemy attack."
  - Payment in kind — barter — from present surpluses as part of a temporary food conservation and retirement program.
  - "Urgent exploration" of conversion of grain to protein foods for distribution at home and abroad. Grain thus could become — canned meat and powdered milk and eggs, giving producers of these items added income.
- Nixon's conversion proposal was regarded by some farm experts as perhaps the most significant part of his plan.

SECOND HALF

"Operation Consume" was only the first half of Nixon's carefully-plotted farm program. He promised to outline the second half, "Operation Safeguard" to avoid new surpluses, in a speech next Friday.

Nixon offered no estimate of the added cost of his farm plan. But an associate figured it as ranging from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 a year for four years, less savings from reduction of present surplus storage costs.

TARGET DATE

Nixon proposed setting an "Operation Consume" target date of four years "to reduce the surplus to manageable proportions." He conceded the program would require fresh federal appropriations.

"We must and should be willing to pay more now to take a big bite out of the surplus and to reach our target date, recognizing the costs over-all will be less in the long run."

Perversion Problem

Security Agency Calls for Help

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Francis E. Walter said yesterday the top-secret National Security Agency has admitted perversion is a "very serious problem" within its ranks.

As a result, Walter said, the NSA is considering establishment of a psychiatric clinic to deal with the problem.

Walter made the disclosure after the House committee on un-American activities held hearings about the defection to Russia of former NSA code clerk Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin.

PUZZLED

Walter said that at the request of NSA officials, a psychiatrist had conferred with "medical people" about the "possibility of erecting a clinic in the department, because perversion was quite a problem in the NSA and they didn't know what to do about it."

He also disclosed that this psychiatrist, Dr. Clarence Schilt, previously had told congressional investigators that Mitchell had consulted with him on three occasions, and Walter has quoted Schilt as describing Mitchell as "definitely" a homosexual.

Walter also said that one of the two men had at one time belonged to a group listed as subversive by the attorney general's office.

He declined to say which one; nor would he identify the organization on the grounds that to do so would hamper the committee's investigation.

He also described the security agency's hiring procedures as "very sloppy," and said he was sure its pre-employment investigations "were not as thorough as they ought to be."

Nothing could be further from the truth," Kennedy said, "for Democrats, Republicans and independents alike are in opposition to your system and everything it means, in our stand for peace, in our hatred of war and in our refusal to tolerate appeasement."

Khrushchev should not be deceived by Kennedy's political "inquiring into our lost prestige, our shaky defenses, our lack of leadership."

Kennedy reminded Khrushchev that "Americans of all parties regard an insult to our president as an insult to every citizen." He added:

Facts or Fancy?

PROFESSOR Alan Thomas's view that newspapers must in future concentrate more on news analysis and less on straight reporting will be greeted with dismay by a goodly number of people on both sides of the front page curtain.

He has decided that readers are more interested in spot news interpretation than they are in having a simple, factual, unanalyzed news report placed before them.

With the exception of a rare few, Canadian newspapers have always tried to keep their news stories free of comment. This field is left to either the editorial page or the specialized feature writer, whose columns are well defined to keep them distinctly apart from straight news material.

This is not to say that news interpretation has only a restricted part to play in the pages of a daily newspaper—but it must not attempt to replace hard news stories. Basically the interpretation of news means simply that one has to take a definite and often single view of any given event. To relate this to local spot news would necessarily mean a one-sided approach to any happening, whether it be a by-election, a traffic accident or a strike.

In each of these cases there would obviously be more than one person or interest involved. Would readers wish to receive the opinions and views of the news writer on any of these stories or would they prefer a factual and unbiased account on which to base their own judgment?

An outstanding example of the dangers of interpretive writing has been evidenced recently in the United States where numerous dailies sent correspondents to cover the Congo crisis. The majority of the early stories sent back carried the personal views of the reporter rather than the basic facts. They had made the obvious error of relating conditions there to conditions in the United States. The result was that Premier Lumumba was shown in the light of a latter day Lincoln fighting the odds of brutal slavery.

One has only to glance at these same papers today to see how the tone has changed.

Is the reader therefore any better informed on the Congo affair through this interpretive writing than he would have been if it had been reported on a purely factual news value basis?

The news, whether it be local, provincial, national or international should be reported as accurately and simply as possible. Comment belongs on the editorial page or in special by-line articles where it is easily recognized as the opinion of the writer to be disputed or agreed with as the reader sees fit.

The newspaper has a duty to the community. If it slants the news it is derelict in its responsibilities and no longer deserves the confidence of the public.

Jail Should Be Mandatory

A MOTORIST charged in an outlying police court the other day with driving while his licence was under suspension was sentenced to 30 days imprisonment. That is the only effective punishment for wilful defiance of authority of this sort. Severe as it may be, it is doubtful if the penalty was severe enough, since in this instance it was the accused's third conviction for the same offence.

In Vancouver a man of mature years forbade several months ago to drive a motor vehicle because of his driving record and inability to pass the required physical examination, was fined $150. It was his first offence of driving while disqualified, but whether or not the punishment was severe enough is open to question, because this man is a lawyer, and lawyers of all people should understand the seriousness of deliberate disobedience of statutory authority.

As has been said repeatedly, driving after one's licence has been revoked or suspended is an offence for which there can be no excuse or extenuation—with the possible exception of cases of dire emergency.

A motorist may transgress any of the other driving rules unconsciously or without wilful intent. But no one with sufficient intelligence to obtain a licence in the first place can be excused for not understanding the meaning of a suspension order.

In this province licences are not suspended without abundant cause. Although the courts nowadays refrain from sending people to jail if fines or other forms of punishment will suffice, there is much to support the view that imprisonment should be mandatory for driving while disqualified, even for a first offence.

If it were known that such was the law, fewer drivers would be tempted to offend, and the roads would be made safer for everyone.

Teaching Johnny to Read

NORTH America has wondered for some time why Johnny can't read and the same wonder must have arisen in England, for a descendant of the famous Pitman is doing something about it. He has invented a new alphabet. Unlike his grandfather, however, whose forte was to shorten letters, he has lengthened the list to 42 separate symbols.

Most people find an alphabet of 26 letters ample for their needs, but happily grown-ups won't have to toy with this new reading aid. That is what it is primarily designed to be—an aid. It is a sort of pre-reading course for children before they come to grips with conventional English. One doubts that an extra primer will prove popular among the Pitman pupils; a single introduction to reading is usually enough.

The idea is to deal with troublesome language sounds. New symbols have been coined on a phonetic basis for such peculiarities as "th", "ing", "oh", and the like. Whether other semantic sounds like "ach" or "ugh" are included is not mentioned. One sad drawback is that the new characters cannot be illustrated in conventional print, which perhaps indicates the puzzle which lies ahead of little English Johnnies.

It is regrettable also to hear that those delicious letters "X" and "Q" have been dropped from the Pitman alphabet. Half the fun of the English language is in its idiosyncrasies. Actually these do not really bother individuals, who from their earliest days absorb words and their use like blotting paper does ink, as witness the phrases of a child before it knows that an alphabet even exists. But pundits are serious folk who like their semantics blue-printed.

As a sideline, perhaps, it is said by Mr. Pitman that his new alphabet will save the English language from becoming as dead as Latin. One had always thought English was the most living language alive. Proof in fact can be had from this new 42-word alphabet, which underscores its capacity for surviving new fads.

For little Johnny will survive, of course, although probably to wonder in turn when he reaches the stage of standard English why adults should make his reading lessons so tortuous a procedure.

Khrushchev and U.S. Election

By HAROLD MORRISON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

POLLSTERS report Jack Kennedy and Dick Nixon are running neck and neck in the race for the U.S. presidency. But the backlash of the United Nations could tip that apart.

With Soviet Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower scheduled to have a battle of words before the UN next week, the spotlight on the presidential fight and its religious controversy will shift to the big political guns on the east shore.

Even at the UN the presidential fight will not be far away. Indeed, what Khrushchev and Eisenhower say and what their actions achieve in the eyes of the world could have some impact on the outcome of the American political struggle.

Eisenhower will speak before the UN general assembly next Thursday, a day before Khrushchev gets the rostrum.

Experts say the U.S. plans no softening of its policy on disarmament—maintaining there must be tight guarantees of inspection and control on step-by-step disarmament. Khrushchev has proposed a more grandiose scheme of large-scale disarmament, though he has held back on the type of controls he would allow.

To some extent both sides will be engaging in propaganda designed to influence the world's neutral nations, but both sides may also be speaking indirectly to the American electorate.

Both Kennedy and Nixon have told Khrushchev to stay out of the American political campaign and Khrushchev has shifted the two party leaders as a "pair of boots"—meaning there's not much difference between them. But he seems to have been far more critical of Nixon than Kennedy, adding that he doesn't know much about the Democratic leader.

The Eisenhower administration has already been embarrassed by the Russian capture of the U2 spy plane, the collapse of the summit, the abortive presidential plans to visit Tokyo and the Cuban problem.

With the presidential election looming in November, Eisenhower will be on his toes to try to make sure Khrushchev doesn't pull the rug from under him at the UN.

Uneasy Future

CCF Marriage Of Convenience

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

THE CCF has always claimed to be the counterpart of the Labor Party in Britain, and it naturally turned to the labor unions in its extremity to save it from extinction. The Canadian Labor Congress, moved to sympathy if not to tears, was flattered by the implied compliment to its political power, gave its blessing to the proposed new party and urged its union locals to support it actively and financially.

The name and the leadership of the new party have yet to be decided upon; but some indication of the former was given by Premier T. C. Douglas in his address of welcome to the delegates at the CCF convention, when he urged them to "forget minor and local problems and concentrate on the challenge of building a democratic socialist movement in Canada."

The proper name for the new alliance should, therefore, be, The Socialist Party.

But what are the prospects for a socialist party in Canada, whatever title it goes under? Its counterpart, the British Labor Party, has been moving farther and farther away from socialism, and at the present time is in a state of internal disruption.

A CP dispatch from London reports that a "plain-spoken pamphlet, prepared by Morgan Phillips for his national executive committee, told the party's disputing factions to stop blaming each other for past electoral defeats and start planning for the future." The pamphlet is said to have "side-stepped the two major issues dividing Labor's ranks—nationalization and nuclear disarmament." It suggests "a major recruiting drive for party members, and efforts to broaden the basis of party membership, explain party aims to the public, work more closely with trade unions and increase party funds."

The pamphlet notes that "labor has been depicted by its opponents as a backward looking party, restrictionist and bureaucratic in office, divided and quarrelling when in opposition." To which it adds: "And we should frankly face the fact that we have sometimes given them, in our conduct, enough evidence to make such charges stick."

Further evidence of the disintegration of the Labor Party is given by the London correspondent of The Sunday Post in Glasgow. He writes: "Sir Tom Williamson, chief of the General and Municipal Workers' Union, has just underlined the widening gap between the Labor Party and the trade union movement." A growing number of moderate trade unionists are said to be looking for new political affiliations, and the Liberals have already published a paper called "United," with a subtitle, "Fair Play in Industry," which circulates widely in dock areas.

The Conservative Party also is said to be "hard at work among trade unions. They don't talk much about it, but they reckon that at least one trade unionist in every four votes Tory. The Liberals claim that about one quarter of their general election candidates were members of one union or another."

That situation is paralleled in Canada. The CCF or what remains of it, is in a state of quarrel not only over the leadership but also on the question of future policy. It wants to revise the dogmatic Regina Manifesto upon which it was founded; but is in a quandary as to how to disguise it out of recognition as an outright socialist program for the proposed new party.

Reports from Ottawa

AIRPLANES are fine, but they haven't yet made the airplane that will give you one-tenth of what you get as you clackety-clack from Vancouver to Ottawa in three days and four nights.

I'm not a railroad buff. I know a lot more about jet vs. prop than I do about diesel vs. steam. And this crossing, my first by train in five years, was an afterthought—to show my wife the Rockies that we hadn't even glimpsed on the flight to Vancouver because of the cloud cover.

We saw the Rockies. But instead of emplaning at Calgary, we decided to see the prairies at harvest time. Then instead of emplaning at Winnipeg, we decided to see the rugged beauty of the north shore of Lake Superior.

The train was jammed. I boarded it with a vague notion that we're nearing the end of rail passenger transportation—a notion I have now discarded. It's true that the carriage trade and the time-is-dollars people go by air. But CPR No. 8 was 33 cars long up to Winnipeg; it took 33 diesels to get it through the Rockies. For long-distance travel the automobile (which is the railways' chief competitor—not the airplane) cannot match the comfort of the new-design streamlined railway carriages with their ample berths, observation domes, piped music, air conditioning and refreshment bars.

The greatest delight: the fact that for days on end there's nothing to do but eat, sleep, drink, talk, read, look at the scenery, and think—all precious activities in a time-is-dollars existence.

You don't see the country from an airplane. There's no appreciation of speed, distance and difference of life on the land you overfly. A plane loaded in Montreal remains a little segment of Montreal until the doors are opened in Vancouver.

Travelling by train, the impressions of distance and difference are sharp indeed. A cross-section of the nation slides by, the land parading its huge size, challenging all 17,000,000 of us to develop it, people it and govern it. "Craigellachie" is lettered on a little red station. You remember the name from school days—where they drove the last spike of the CPR and made the British North American colonies a sociological entity.

North of Lake Superior you see the beginnings of the first trans-Canada highway: miles of road blasted along precambrian rock slopes in an R. B. Bennett relief project of the thirties. Long since abandoned in favor of a different route chosen for the modern Trans-Canada Highway, the old blastings remain a monument to the Great Depression and to the men who toiled here because it was better to muck rock at 25 cents an hour than to starve. You think of the latest unemployment statistics...

But most of all you realize what a fine country you have, and how much more it means to be a Canadian than an Ottawan or an Ontarian. You get new strength from experiencing the vastness and diversity of the land; and new pride, and new humbleness, and somehow inside, a new dedication.

200 Liberal Minds...

All in Competition

(From The Ottawa Journal)

MR. MITCHELL SHARP, an old and respected friend in Ottawa circles who has forsaken government service for big business in Toronto, is the chairman of the sponsoring committee of that Study Conference on National Problems in Kingston that we have been reading about.

The meeting, said Mr. Sharp, was "one of liberal-minded people" but not of the Liberal Party.

How now, Mr. Sharp? Is this then a ginger group, a rump, a flying buttress of the Liberal Party? Are we to understand, then, that there is now an admitted distinction between liberal-minded people and Liberals?

It gives us pause. All Airedales are dogs, but not all dogs are Airedales. How is it with the Liberals? Are all Liberals not liberal minded? Is there a party cleavage of such awesome depth that when the brains trust wants to work out a national policy it summons liberal-minded people but posts a prominent sign saying no Liberal need apply?

We were pondering and had about come to the conclusion that perhaps there'd be a new party name coming up. Possibly the liberal-minded Liberals, if any, had envied the success that came to the change of name of the Conservatives. If a party can win under the cumbersome title of Progressive Conservative Party why not under the distinguishing (if not distinguished) term of The League of Liberal Minds? Or what about the Liberal Liberal Party?

But then came Mr. Peter Newman over the radio from Kingston. The Ottawa editor of Maclean's had a dire tale that maybe Mr. Pearson et al were not so happy about what they had conjured up. For, said Mr. Newman, it was clear that at Kingston the 200 liberal minds had such varied and conflicting views of how to run the country that there seemed to be 200 of them in outright competition. The closing sentence of his broadcast sounded like a prayer born of the chaos of recent hours: it is a time for greatness, he sighed.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IN closing up his summer cottage last week, a neighbor of mine removed a barn swallow's nest from the rafters of his boat house. The swallows have been most welcome guests all season, of course, and have been, year after year for two generations of the family cottage's history.

When he got the nest down, he noticed a curious glitter in the lining of it. It was completely lined with little strips of cellophane. He brought it over and showed it to me. Cellophane it was, without a doubt, such as might have come off cigaret packets, and torn into neat strips.

The barn swallow has been, from the very earliest settlement of North America, undoubtedly the first native bird to adopt the white man's civilization to his own advantage. The first sheds and shacks set up in the 15th century by the French and Spanish pioneers were promptly accepted as home by this most beautiful bird. By the time the farm barns of the increasing settlement began to rise in the clearings, the barn swallow was integrated into our society. It is strange that more honor has not been done to him in our folklore and literature.

And now, just to declare his partnership, the swallow has adopted cellophane.

Church and State

Kennedy's Religion

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WHAT has now become evident is that in perhaps as many as 15 to 18 states in the south and the mid-west Senator John F. Kennedy's religion has become a major factor in the campaign. There are those who believe it can be the decisive factor determining whether he wins or loses in November.

One of these states is Texas with its 24 electoral votes. Kennedy is campaigning hard from one side to the other in the belief that his personal appeal and a discussion of the paramount issues of war, peace, national security and the growth of the economy will override the question of his religion.

But it is difficult or impossible to gauge its effect. Like a fire in a coal mine, as one Kennedy strategist put it, it can be suppressed at one point only to go on smouldering far underground and out of reach. That is one reason why the polls—whether those that presume to test nationwide sentiment or the small house-to-house samples—are likely to be more wrong this time than ever before. For the average American is reluctant to say that this is why he will not vote for the Democratic candidate.

Despite several efforts to make his own viewpoint clear, there is still confusion over Senator Kennedy's position. It is very simple. For those who oppose him simply because he is a Catholic he says that he can make no response. This violates the provision in the constitution that there shall be no religious test for office. Moreover it is like saying that you oppose a man because of the color of his eyes or the cut of his hair, as Kennedy sees it. He was born a Catholic, he lives a Catholic, and that is that.

But when it comes to the relationship between the Catholic Church and the state and the question of religious freedom, Senator Kennedy is prepared to answer any and all questions. He believed that he had long since made his position on the separation of church and state unmistakably clear. And he and those helping him map his campaign thought the question had been laid to rest in the West Virginia primary, where he won handsomely despite an attack on his religion. And West Virginia is a state in which the Catholic population is put at 5 per cent or less.

The question of the separation of church and state is a broad field covered by a mass of literature. One of the latest contributors to the literature is Bishop James Pike, the Episcopal Bishop of Northern California. In his recently published book, "Roman Catholicism in the White House," Bishop Pike takes the view that to oppose Kennedy merely because he is a Catholic is bigotry.

That is what Dr. Norman Vincent Peale and the other Protestant ministers, in forming the National Conference of Citizens for Religious Freedom, seem to be doing. In his Los Angeles press conference Kennedy interpreted their statements as impugning his loyalty.

But what Bishop Pike goes on to do in his book is discuss the position of the Catholic Church in America in detail. He raises the question of the priority of a long series of Papal encyclicals affirming the church's authority over every area of life and its inherent supremacy in the religious field as against the "American interpretation" as put forward by some Catholic theologians in this country. Under this interpretation the separation of church and state is accepted as a fact of American life.

That is the area in which Kennedy is prepared to discuss the whole question. His statements of the past year have been in line with this interpretation. As one result he has come under attack from some of the publications of his own church.

Whatever the moral, theological and philosophical arguments, this has become also a matter of practical politics. In the Pacific Northwest, for example, it has been assumed that the liberal tradition of the past still prevailed.

But in the State of Washington there is, as Kennedy discovered when he passed through, an undercurrent of disquiet.

Some reports of Kennedy's reaction, when questions on his religion are put to him, have him angry and outraged. Rather, he is puzzled and profoundly disturbed. When he says that the issues in this campaign are as significant as those of 1860 he believes just that. And he sees the question of religion as a kind of smoke-screen obscuring any realistic discussion of the issues and the far-reaching problems of America in the world today.

Nikita, Nasser, Castro All Need Protection

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The visits of Soviet Premier Khrushchev and other statesmen to New York next week will pose the toughest security problem ever confronted by the city. Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy said last night.

Kennedy said it was impossible to say which of the visiting dignitaries would pose the greatest security challenge. In addition to Khrushchev, they will include Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and Yugoslav President Tito.

"Our job is to assure maximum security on all of the men," Kennedy said. "Once you begin thinking one man more important than the other, you fall into a trap."

All of the city's 24,000 policemen, which Kennedy said equalled two military divisions, will be mobilized for the duration of the security crisis. He said he would be on duty around the clock, sleeping on a cot in his office.

In Moscow, the Soviet Union protested in a second note to the U.S. against the restrictions on Khrushchev during his New York stay. The state department has restricted him to Manhattan Island and has ordered that his personal bodyguards will not be allowed to carry weapons.

Kennedy said that he was ready to enforce the no weapons rule. He said, however, that he expected the Russians and others would obey the rules.

Castro Day Earlier

The Soviet premier's liner Baltika was scheduled to dock about 10 a.m. Monday with Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro coming in by plane a day earlier and Yugoslavia's president Tito arriving Tuesday on the Queen Elizabeth.

Indonesia's Sukarno, President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, Poland's Gomulka and other lesser lights were due during the same period by plane so that Khrushchev would have a prime propaganda setting.

Eisenhower's speech is scheduled for Thursday following what are usually two routine organizational days. But Khrushchev, as leader of his delegation, thereby automatically a UN vice-president, and member of the steering committee, could deliver a trade on Red China when the committee considers on Wednesday the agenda for the 15th general assembly.

Security precautions at the huge, sandwich-shaped skyscraper and oval assembly hall were tightened yesterday, with guards demanding passes for non-public areas. The last guided tours will be held this weekend and then the headquarters will be shut off.

Each of the 16,000 high dignitaries will have his own motorcade with cycle-mounted escort—a situation which should produce ear-splitting chaos in the streets of midtown Manhattan.

Harbor Craft Banned

Harbor craft were ordered to stay at least 200 feet from the Baltika when it arrives Monday. Helicopters and planes were forbidden to fly overhead. The northbound lane of the busy east river drive will be closed until the Russians and satellite parties have left the ship and been taken to their accommodations.

Khrushchev was emitting propaganda even as the Baltika moved across the mid-Atlantic. In a wireless to the Soviet embassy in Washington, he denounced the ban limiting him to Manhattan.

"The sun will finally rise, the gloomy clouds will clear and all people will understand the necessity of friendship and co-operation between two countries," his message said.

Monumental as was the job of guarding Khrushchev, Hungarian Premier Janos Kadar, police and state department agents were equally worried about violence on the part of refugee enemies of Castro.

Crime Figure Slain

MONTREAL (CP)—A gangland-style murder has been added to the series of bank holdups, hijackings and burglaries that has made up the latest Montreal area crime wave.

Internal violence rumbled in the underworld early Friday with the discovery of the body of a man at the rear of an east-end tabaret.

THROUGH HEAD

Frank Trudeau, 28, whom police described as a known underworld figure, had been shot through the back of the head.

Thefts of various natures have netted criminals more than $10,000 this week, more than half of it stolen Thursday in a holdup and a hijacking.

TRUCK HOLDUP

Biggest raid occurred Thursday when two men held up a University of Montreal delivery truck driver and escaped with $6,014 in cash and $52,900 in cheques.

Driver Jean Fournel, who was taking the cash and cheques to a bank, said a car forced his truck into the curb.

SCREAMING

"The bandit knocked on the window of the truck with the butt of his revolver, screaming at me to open the door."

"When I opened the door he grabbed the satchel and ordered me to hand over the keys. He warned me not to follow him."

The money came from registration fees of about 400 students.

Seeing Ike, Kennedy, Nixon On Nikita's U.S. Agenda?

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet he specifically exonerated Ike lived Eisenhower had no diplomats hunted Friday Pre- from responsibility for the U.S. advance knowledge of the mier, Khrushchev might seek incident, saying he still be flight.

The Soviet diplomats said Khrushchev may not only try to effect a reconciliation with Eisenhower but also may seek personal meetings with presidential nominees John Kennedy and Richard Nixon.

They indicated this would depend on whether things go well for the Soviet premier when his liner Baltika arrives in New York Monday morning. They also said he would try to avoid any action that might be interpreted as an attempt to influence the U.S. election.

There have been indications for several days that Khrushchev was taking a softer line toward Eisenhower. Recently

Let Defence Prove Innocence In Car Crashes, Lawyers Told

OTTAWA (UPI) — Commonwealth legal experts disagreed yesterday on the need to establish "absolute" defenses, charges which would not be avoided by pleas that the accused did not intend to commit the offence.

Several speakers at the second Commonwealth and Empire law conference called for the shifting of the proof to the defence in minor offences, as a means to make it easier to prosecute persons guilty in automobile accidents.

OPPOSED IDEA

But other lawyers opposed the idea because it could lead to the conviction of innocent persons.

The present legal situation affords persons accused of offences the right to argue that the offence was not committed wilfully, or that they did not foresee the consequences of their actions. The prosecution then has to prove wilful intent.

ABUSE OF POWER

Osgoode Hall law professor J. D. Morton said that this provoked "abuse of police powers" because the police had to go beyond their powers to obtain the necessary evidence from suspects. In Toronto, he added, "the police take you to the "full range" to try to persuade you to explain."

But English Magistrate Frank Milton said this was a "shocking suggestion" because Morton was arguing that when the onus of proof were put upon the defence the police would do the work of the prosecution for them. This called for a change in police methods rather than a change in legal procedure.

There was enough flexibility in the British legal system,

Milton said, to allow the shifting of the onus between the defence and the prosecution according to the degree of the offence.

Almost 99 per cent of motor accidents had no wilful intent, Milton said, only error judgment. If there was no burden of proof on the defence, he added, "heaven knows what our traffic would be like, it's enough of a shamble as it is."

R. M. Jackson of Cambridge, England, argued that in lesser crimes "the full burden of proof" should be thrown on the accused. The scales were too heavily weighted against the prosecution, he said.

Criminal law, he said, had become "kinder and kinder to the person in the dock, a great deal too kind."

"The scales have been weighted too much against the prosecution," Jackson said at the second Commonwealth and Empire law conference.

But G. J. Cohen of Sunderland, England, said "the scales are weighted in favor of the prosecution" because the law had at its disposal "all the powerful machinery of the state." The defence need "some protection," he argued.

$60,000 Firehall Mooted At Rock Bay School Site

Victoria Fire Chief James Bayliss has been asked by city fire wardens to report on advisability of closing the No. 2 firehall at Burnside and Douglas and building a new hall at John and Turner.

Suggested change would see a $60,000 hall built on the old Rock Bay School site, recently turned over to the city by the province for such use. Burnside-Douglas property would be sold to help pay for its replacement.

Better service for Victoria West and traffic congestion hampering the present hall were reasons for the project.

Russia May Try Second 'Sky Spy'

PLAINFIELD, N.J. (UPI) — The wife of an American RB47 airman being held by Russia said yesterday her husband has written her that he expected to be brought to trial in Moscow on espionage charges.

Mrs. Gail Olmstead, 25, said her husband, Capt. Freeman B. Olmstead, did not say when the trial would begin.

Olmstead was one of two survivors of an air force RB47 plane shot down by the Russians in the Barents Sea July 1. The other survivor of the six-man crew is Lieut. John R. McKone of Topeka, Kan.

The United States has said that the plane was outside Russian territorial waters when

Waste Probe Begins

Three Seek Key to Government

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker yesterday handed two private businessmen and the former watchdog of the federal treasury the mammoth task of finding ways to improve the operations of government.

The trio—Toronto chartered accountant J. Grant Glassco, 55, vice president and director of Brazilian Traction, will start work immediately on a study designed to root out duplication and waste and replace it with efficiency and economy.

TASK FORCES
To find the answers, they will set up "task forces" for a top-to-bottom probe of the government's present structure and listen to the views of various organizations from across the nation on how it might be improved.

The prime minister said a target date of two years had been set for the commission's final report, but few observers saw the three men completing the giant undertaking by then. There will be interim reports along the way.

NEVER BEFORE
"This commission has tremendous responsibilities," Mr. Diefenbaker said. "Nothing like it has ever been set up before in this country."

The inquiry is planned broadly along the lines followed by the famous Hoover Commission in the U.S., which the prime minister noted, resulted in savings of more than $5,000,000,000 in U.S. government operations.

VERY STRUCTURE
Main target for the commission will not be the civil service but the very structure and operation of government, department and crown corporation alike.

partner in a Montreal law firm.

The prime minister made a special appeal to organizations—farm, labor and management—to come forward with their ideas on how best to run "this country's biggest business."

"I hope," he said, "the commission will have the cooperation and assistance of Canadians everywhere to the end that reductions and elimination of unnecessary expenditures may be recommended while at the same time maintaining full efficiency of government operation."

EDMONTON (CP)—Warren Stoopole, who "pinched" a policewoman Aug. 31 and was arrested for indecent assault, Thursday, was found guilty of the charge and fined $75 in city police court.

Policewoman Betty Dennis said she was leaving a downtown cafe when the accused "reached out and pinched me." Trained in judo, she turned around and "dropped" her assailant to the floor, where he was held until the patrol wagon arrived.

'Dead-Arm' Whitey Ford Stops Baltimore Cold

Whitey Ford, struggling at 31 to avoid his first losing season in the major leagues, is still the man in the clutch for the New York Yankees, especially against Baltimore Orioles.

Written off by Baltimore manager Paul Richards before last night's big game at Yankee Stadium as "a dead-arm guy who may not pitch another winning game this season," Ford provided the answer with a 4-2 win which gave his club a full game lead in the tense American League race.

Ford needed help from Bobby Shantz to get the side out in the ninth, but he was brilliant until the ninth inning in recording his fifth win this season over the Orioles. His season's record is 10-9, against the Orioles it's 5-2.

Ford started the game with 25 consecutive scoreless innings against the Orioles in the Yankee Stadium. He had pitched two three-hit shutouts and seven innings of a third shutout against the hopeful young Birds.

He ran the streak to 33 innings as home runs by Hector Lopez and Roger Maris helped him into a 4-0 lead. When the Orioles threatened in the ninth, getting two runners in and the tying runs on the bases, Ford gave way to Shantz. The little pitcher promptly ended it by striking out Marv Breeding.

The same clubs go at it this afternoon in the second game of the four-game series with the Orioles starting Chuck Estrada, a righthanded rookie with a 17-9 record, and the Yankees countering with Bob Turley, a veteran starboard server whose 8-3 record doesn't indicate the troubles he has been having.

The Yankees lead the season's series, 10-9, having won seven of eight at home and only three of 11 at Baltimore.

Meanwhile, an ex-Yankee gave his former teammates a lift. Catcher Harry Chitt stepped up at Detroit with the score tied in the eighth inning to connect for a home run which gave the Tigers a 4-3 win over the White Sox.

Defeat dropped the Chicago club three games off the pace, four games out on the losing side with 12 to play as compared to 14 for the Yankees.

In another development last night, Cleveland Indians suspended Jim "Mudcat" Grant, colored righthander, for the balance of the season. He walked out of the park after what he said was a racial slur by Cleveland coach Ted Wilks.

Sailors Lead, 3-0

Nanaimo on Ropes

PORT CREDIT, Ont. — The surprising Port Credit Sailors scored seven unanswered goals late in the game here last night to come from behind for a 17-13 victory over Nanaimo and move within one game of the Mann Cup Canadian senior lacrosse championship.

Sailors trailed, 12-8, with five minutes left in the third quarter as Nanaimo fired three goals in less than a minute. But they struck for three goals before the period ended, and got four more to start the last quarter as Nanaimo fell apart.

Don Sherry put Nanaimo back in the game at 9:31, scoring his third goal of the night to make it 15-13. But Florian Tomchishen and Ken Crawford scored 14 seconds apart for Sailors before the game ended.

Penalties again hurt the westerners' chances against the hustling Sailors, who beat them by one goal in the first two games. Nanaimo took 11 of the 16 penalties including a 10-minute misconduct to Don Ashbee in the first quarter.

Archie Browning had four goals for Nanaimo. Sherry had three and an assist in his first start, and Skip MacKay had two goals and three assists.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — New Westminster Salmonbellies ended a three-year Eastern monopoly of the Minto Cup here Friday night, whipping Whittier Red Wings 11-7 before 1,100 fans to capture the Canadian junior lacrosse championship.

Salmonbellies won their first championship ever by taking the best-of-seven series 4-1. The entire Salmonbellies team poured onto the floor and surrounded goalie Howie Smith as the final horn sounded. Minutes later, captain Bob Bateman accepted the Minto Cup from Canadian Lacrosse Association secretary Tommy Gordon.

Again it was a case of too many penalties picked up by Whittier and an airtight New Westminster zone defence which brought the Western champions victory.

Salmonbellies scored five of their goals with a manpower advantage and only goalie Bob McCready's smart work in the Whittier net prevented the score from mounting even higher.

Whittier's Goal: McCready. Defence: Vinnif, Berge, Gibson, Hall, Grandy, Forward: Lottan, Campbell, Carnegie, E. Tran, Davis, Ross, P. Tran, Turner, Roberts.

New Westminster Goal: Smith. John, defence: Shaw, Smith, Balmann, Sudolph, Forward: Torg, Jackson, Kyle, Warwick, Brownlee, Burdette, Gates, Russell, Nelson, Sanders, Walmsley.

Jack Bionda, Tom McVie, Ashbee and Gordie Gimple got the other Nanaimo goals.

Edmonton Eskimos practically made certain of post-season play by scoring a meliorical 29-6 victory over the still winless Saskatchewan Roughriders, almost certainly to be one of the two teams left out.

Result left Eskimos only four points behind the unbeaten Blue Bombers, who can mathematically clinch a playoff spot at Vancouver tonight, and five points ahead of the third-place B.C. Lions.

Playing it close to the vest all the way but getting a stubborn argument from the Riders, the Eskimos took advantage of fumbles in the fourth quarter to pull away.

WERE CLOSE
Riders were as close as 6-7 after the first quarter and might have been closer than 6-14 starting the final 15 minutes but for two intercepted passes which stopped them cold when it seemed they had something started.

It was all over at 4:39 of the fourth quarter when Danny Banda fumbled a punt and punter Vic Chapman scooped up the loose ball to go 30 yards and make good on one of his infrequent chances to score.

Less than three minutes later, Normie Kwong pulled the last three yards after Rolie Miles had stolen the ball from quarterback Don Allard in Saskatchewan territory.

An intercepted pass set up Eskimos' first touchdown, midway through the first quarter. Edmonton needed only six plays to go 52 yards, getting 33 in one when Jackie Parker passed to Tommy Joe Coffey. Johnny Bright went the last two yards for the score.

Bright got the second Edmonton touchdown in the second quarter, going the last 28 yards in two plays, 27 and then one. In between, Jack Hill made a spectacular catch of an Allard pass for Riders' only score.

Parker converted all four touchdowns and got credit for a field point when a late field-goal attempt was wide.

WARREN SPAHN
... exquisite timing

No-Hitter By Spahn

Warren Spahn started his 15th major league baseball season last spring seeking two coveted goals with which to cap a brilliant career. Last night, he attained the most difficult one. The other is only a matter of time.

The veteran southpaw, who'll be 40 years old next April 23, reached another pinnacle with exquisite timing.

Playing before a home-town crowd, he became a 20-game winner for the 11th time by pitching his first no-hit, no-run game.

Victims, 40, were the Philadelphia Phillies, who were also victimized in similar fashion earlier this season by Lew Burdette. Spahn's long-time roommate.

Spahn was almost perfect last night. He gave up only two bases on balls and struck out 15 Phillies. Not until there was a no-hitter by one hit. Now 20-9 for the season, he has a lifetime total of 287 wins and is within less than shouting distance of joining the handful of pitchers who have won 300 major league games.

Twice previously, in 1951 against St. Louis and in 1953 against the Phillies, Spahn missed a no-hitter by one hit. Now 20-9 for the season, he has a lifetime total of 287 wins and is within less than shouting distance of joining the handful of pitchers who have won 300 major league games.

Quality and Quantity Pose Betting Problem

Opening day at Sandown Park's sixth thoroughbred racing season promises some problems for bettors this afternoon. Officials have eight full and evenly-matched fields and coming out with winners will need luck for even the most knowledgeable racing fan. They won't all get to run but 75 horses have been nominated for the eight races and 11 are standing by in the substitute race. Fifteen different riders have accepted mounts and with this assurance that there is quantity here along with a record number of horses, only the weather is a worry. And it should be good for the start.

Ladner Beauty has been top-weighted at 119 pounds—in the featured Inaugural Handicap, a six-furlong affair which has drawn some of the top handicap horses stabled at Sandown.

The third race, a miler, has drawn a field which includes such as Kaceta, Baraloy, Secret Dairy and Penworth. In the fifth, Pursuance will strive to make it six wins in a row to claim the Pickle Boy. Armed Leaf, Doree Dee, Vic Valley, Bro. Chas. and Amsterman. The nine-year-old gelding from Circle Stables has gone to the post only seven times this season, lost the first race by a nose, finished sixth in the second and then reeled off five in a row. He won on fast, slow and muddy tracks but the margin was never more than a length.

With so little to choose between the horses, punters may turn to the riders for the hoped-for edge. But, here too, it could be difficult to pick.

No Peter Clark looms on the horizon and the guessing is that, riding honors might be between Jim Broomfield and Al Sherman but Charlie Ulrich and Bobby Cormack have to be considered and apprentice George Miller has been in the winners' circle 11 times this season.

Broomfield was second on Vancouver tracks this season with 72 winners, trailing Bud Giacomelli, who had 87. Cormack had 42 winners in Vancouver and Ulrich had 63. Sherman had only 12 on the Mainland but spent a fair part of the season at Portland and Gresham.

Rolls on Salt Flats

Campbell's Car Wrecked

BONNEVILLE, Utah (AP) — British speed king Donald Campbell was injured Friday in the crashup of his $4,500,000 racing car, and his advisers called off any attempt at the world-speed trial this year.

Campbell, warming up on the western Utah salt flats Friday morning for a crack at the record of 394 miles an hour, miraculously was only cut and bruised when the gas turbine-powered car veered out of control, slid and rolled.

The wreck, ominously reminiscent of the one that killed around for a second run. See-onds away from the pit, his 4,250-horsepower car was rolling over and over in a cloud of salt dust.

"It turned over at least three times," said an eye-witness. "each time it hit there was a big spray of salt."

Campbell's wife and his entourage of 25 mechanics and advisers, raced to the stricken Bluebird and lifted him into an ambulance. He was stunned, unable to answer questions.

Both right wheels of the car were torn off, the body smashed except for the cockpit area.

It appeared the car was accelerating at a tremendous rate when it suddenly skidded out of control.

"I don't know whether the car turned over," said Campbell. "I had just accelerated to over 300 when the wind got it. I'm very annoyed by the whole thing but I want to get back as quickly as possible. I don't feel exactly happy."

Deer hunting season opens today and safety and care with fire in the woods should be the keynote.

Recent dry weather is giving the odds to the deer rather than the hunter, although Vancouver Island woods are reported to chock-a-block full of deer. But several of the best areas, including Copper Canyon, Deerholme, Muir Creek and the Elsie Lake area are likely to be closed off to hunters because of the forest fire hazard.

Woods will be dry and hunters will crack twigs as they walk through, as well as deer, so be extra sure that the noise you hear in the woods is a deer... and not a MAN... look and see... be sure.

With the opening of the deer season accent will be off the wary grouse, although are still some around. One went walking by our campsite at Stamp Falls Park yesterday morning as we ate breakfast.

Among those who have made bets they will get a buck today is Inky Baird of Nanaimo, but his friend Vince Crawley was a little more cautious. "I know where they are back there on the ridge above Nanaimo, but that doesn't mean I will get him the first day," Crawley said.

We saw plenty of deer on our way to the Alberni district and had to stop the car and wait while a big buck crossed the road at Cathedral Grove.

Game Warden George Vincent says he has seen more deer this year in the Alberni district than he has ever seen around before.

Qualicum RCMP detachment says that in June they averaged a deer a day that they had to take off the highways because they had been killed by motorists.

Game Warden Vincent says he has seen plenty of evidence of deer along the Taylor River arm portion of the Alberni-Tofino Road. He counted six crossing the road around 10 a.m. the other morning.

Incidentally, he wishes to point out that he read Joe Gregory's comments about the need for a game warden or more regular checks in the Tofino-Uclulet area while he (Vincent) was sitting in the hotel at Uclulet on one of his fish and game checks to the west coast areas.

He did, however, acknowledge that he has followed up Gregory's comments about people running geese with motorboats... and "they had better watch out this season."

Vincent says there are plenty of deer signs on the Franklin River Road.

There are four main areas to hunt in the Alberni area—the Taylor Arm area of the Tofino Road... the export area at the junction of Alberni and Port Alberni, which is gated and locked, but hunters can walk in... the Ash River—Elsie Lake area of MacMillan and Bloedel which will likely be out of bounds this weekend because of fire hazard... and the Franklin River Road area. All should be good.

The Ash River-Elsie Lake area is hot as a trout fishing area at the moment and anglers took out 1,100 fish on the Labor Day weekend. It is a permit area, open only to MacMillan and Bloedel Sproat Lake division employees and fish and game club members.

The same area has been a good grouse producer this season and on the opening Labor Day weekend 70 cars and 113 people caught 462 trout and shot 101 grouse on the Saturday; 65 cars and 188 people caught 373 cutthroat and shot 62 grouse on the Sunday; and 53 cars and 163 people caught 411 trout and shot 63 grouse and three pigeons on the Monday.

H. R. MacMillan was one of the lucky anglers who has fished the Elsie Lake area recently. Cutthroat in that area run up to around three pounds.

The Alberni Valley Fish and Game Club has a trophy at stake for the member shooting the largest deer of the season in the Alberni area. It also has a similar trophy for junior members, 16 and under, and to win it a junior has to shoot and dress out his own deer.

Oliver McKenzie, caretaker of Stamp Falls Park and Sproat Lake Park, says camping at Stamp has fallen off to a point where there are only two or three campers a night.

Picnic use of Sproat Lake has fallen off similarly, although that lake, along with Great Central, is currently giving up larger than usual trout to trollers and should keep that kind of fishing up until the end of November.

Among Stamp Falls campers are James and Elsie Horne, who are making a two-or-three-month tour of the island, fishing at all the hot spots. They still have to get their tyre which they have been after for two days. Mr. Horne is the assistant director of mines for the Alberta government and is on a year's leave of absence, making Victoria his headquarters.

McKenzie says he has only had to speak to two campers who tried to camp at Sproat Lake (formerly Smith's Landing) which the Provincial Parks developed as a picnic site this summer, and banned all camping.

McKenzie didn't know it, but this column did some snooping recently and found out that one of the illegal campers was mines minister Kenneth Kiernan and family, who got tired looking for camping spots in Port Alberni area and arrived at Sproat Lake late in the evening and decided to stay there... and to h... with the rules.

Garden Notes

End Rot NOT Disease

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

This has been a good season for tomatoes, for the several heat waves we have experienced are just what the doctor ordered for this sub-tropical plant. The one fly in the ointment has been blossom-end rot, and we have had more than our share of this trouble.

In this, the plants appear to be perfectly healthy, with strong foliage, plenty of blossoms and a good set of fruits. But as each tomato starts to color up, a tiny spot of oily-looking rot appears on its bottom, and this enlarges until the fruit is more than half rotted.

This is a particularly annoying and frustrating trouble, especially when folks have raised their own plants from seed and nursed them along from the seedling stage right through to the point where the vines are heavy with green fruit.

The ailment has been reported to me from all parts of Vancouver Island, and these disappointed gardeners have a lot of questions to ask. Should the plants be destroyed? Are the tomatoes fit to eat if the rotted portion is cut away? Will the soil be infected and will next year's plants go the same way? Will the trouble spread to other kinds of plants in the garden?

I should explain first that blossom-end rot is NOT a disease. There is no parasitic organism involved—no virus, no germ, no fungus spores—hence it cannot be spread from one plant to another. The spot of rot on the bottom of each developing tomato is due, purely and simply, to a lack of moisture at the roots.

With good moisture conditions early in the season, the plants grew apace, making plenty of large, husky leaves. Later, when the moisture reserves in the subsoil were used up and the roots were unable to supply the wants of this foliage, the leaves turned cannibal and sucked the juices from the ripening fruit, thereby starting the rot. With no disease organism involved, there is no question of the soil becoming infected, and the sound portions of the affected tomatoes are perfectly safe to eat.

It may sound strange, but it is quite possible for a plant to suffer from drought as a result of too much water. It happens sometimes on a poorly-drained ground that the roots rot off, leaving the plant with no means of taking in moisture.

Or in uncongenial soil, the plant fails to develop an adequate root system and is unable to take up enough water to satisfy the needs of the foliage. In both such cases, in addition to just plain dry soil, blossom-end rot may occur. I have seen the tips of cucumbers rot from the same cause.

Tomatoes don't need a great deal of moisture, but the little they need, they MUST have in a steady, never failing supply. As I mentioned last week, my pet trick to guarantee this constant reserve of moisture is to bury a big wad of soggy wet newspaper fairly deeply under each tomato plant. The wad of newspaper holds moisture like blotting paper or a sponge, releasing it slowly throughout the growing season, where it rises by capillary action to the plant roots.

Next year, in addition to putting your old issues of the Colonist to use in this way, the soil surface between the plants should be covered with a good thick layer of straw, lawn mowings, sawdust, leaves, or any such litter. This much serves to insulate the soil surface from the sun and holds in the moisture.

What Happened to Magic?

What ever happened to magicians? When I was a kid, a magician used to arrive regularly at our local theatre to saw girls in half, to make people disappear, and all that sort of thing. We kids would go up on the stage and the magician would pull watches out of our mouths. Nothing a kid gets looking at TV can match that thrill.

So, the other day, to find out what's happened to the magician profession, I had a talk with magician, Milbourne Christopher. Television and magicians, he told me sadly, don't mix well. "They can do tricks with photography. They can make cigarette packs open mysteriously, breakfast cereals appear and disappear mysteriously. They can do it much better than I can."

A few years ago I did a feat where I caught a bullet fired from a rifle between my teeth. I believe it was one John Crosby who asked me why a man would want to do a thing like that. The answer is: publicity. And the publicity worked. The show got a high rating. But Lloyd's of London refused to give me life insurance because of that act. When I later did the same thing on British TV, I promised my wife I would never do it again. It has already killed 12 magicians.

Where are the magicians? Have they gone the way of the horse car?

"The reason you don't see as many magicians performing is because of television, really. There are now fewer places to play, there are fewer magicians."

I said I couldn't recall a magic show in New York in years.

Christopher said: "There hasn't been a magic show in New York since 1940 when Dante appeared at the Morosco. My show will be the first since then that the young generation can see a big trick."

What's a big trick? "A big trick is an illusion which can only be done with human beings or large animals—bigger than a rabbit. On television, little tricks are better—tricks with a penny or a needle. These are better illusions because the camera can focus on your hand."

"Magicians have a definite code of ethics. You'll find few in jail. It takes an honest man to deceive people. Once a magician asked another the best of deception. The other guy said: 'Tell 'em the truth. That'll fool 'em.' People go to magic shows because they want shock, they want emotion. You have to be dramatic and corny. In my show, I play the traditional magician with everything but the goatee—the cape, the high hat, the medallion. It doesn't do to look like just anybody."

Hollywood Today

By Sheila Graham

Miltie Stole the Show

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Don't be surprised when Marilyn Monroe flies to Paris after she completes "The Misfits" in Reno. And this time she will be met by Yves Montand, her co-star in "Let's Make Love." The last time Yves flew to the U.S., Marilyn met him at the airport.

As to their picture, I agree with most critics who stated that Milton Berle stole "Let's Make Love" from Marilyn and Yves. What a strangely old-fashioned movie! Marilyn has changed in appearance, or maybe the make-up made her face look longer. And she has gained weight.

But with all the publicity, the film will make money. I'm sure. However, for her future as an actress, I hope "The Misfits" is a winner. I hear that 20th Century-Fox is offering Berle a multiple deal—to act, direct and produce.

No wonder Deborah Kerr curtailed her honeymoon in Switzerland with Peter Viertel—she is getting $400,000 for her movie in London with Gary Cooper, all tax free!

Margaret Leighton has been staying at the Portofino home of Rex Harrison while awaiting the return of Laurence Harvey from Japan—and a chat about their future way of life.

Esther Williams and Fernando Lamas have marriage on their minds. So do Glenn Ford and Hope Lange. Switch your partners and change the dance!

Greer Garson, who makes a comeback as a movie star in "Sunrise at Campobello," is now asking, via her agents, $225,000 per picture. Not that she needs the money, but, in Hollywood, your price establishes your position. Greer is now in New Mexico with millionaire husband Buddy Ebsen.

Janet Leigh will win the Oscar for the best supporting actress of the year. Paramount is entering her in this category, for "Psycho," which will surely win her the award. This demoting of a star for the Oscar competition happens every year. Last year Shelley Winters, who, I thought, was one of the stars of "The Diary of Anne Frank," was placed in the "Supporting" category. And took the Oscar. Husband Anthony Franciosa and Shelley, by the way, are currently working out the property settlement. Tony is in New York, to talk about a TV series.

Fred MacMurray says he has the best deal in Hollywood or anywhere. "I'm doing my 39 TV film segments in 13 weeks. I play a widower, with the basic problem of raising three sons. Wife June Haver brings her lunch to the set every day, which they cook in Fred's air-conditioned all-electric trailer."

Nothing as phony as a publicity romance—especially that which does not exist between Dirk Bogarde and Capucine. The love-dovey blurbs are to coincide with the current release of their film, "Song Without End," in Europe. Everybody in Hollywood knows that the only man in Capucine's life is her producer, agent and mentor, Charles Feldman.

They loved Bing Crosby in London, and it was pleasant to read the pleasant things written about him—I didn't see one comment asking Bing how old he is, or how rich!

'White Hands' Annoy Mr. K

(Third of a series)

MOSCOW (TNS)—Premier Khrushchev hates the "beloruchki."

And because of that, the Russian elementary and secondary school curricula are being changed this year in a significant way.

"Beloruchki," in a loose definition, are "those with white hands," or persons who dislike having to dirty their hands at manual labor.

When I visited officials in Moscow, I found them ready to talk about anything. But in the first few minutes they always suggested that I might want to know about the new reform system.

Theme of all the changes is summed up in the law passed

Big Red Schoolhouse
— By Jack Hutton —

at the urging of Premier Khrushchev in 1958. The Law of Strengthening the Ties of the School With Life and Further Developing the System of Public Education.

This, if one is interested, can be traced back to aims expressed in the Communist Party program of 1919—or even farther back in Marxian theory.

Principals and teachers are becoming accustomed to new machinery entering their schools for technical training. A recent newspaper story complained about student injuries.) The swing away from "practical" education went so far, in fact, that in 1937 all handicrafts, carpentry and mechanical training were banned by the curricula.

Just where Russian elementary and secondary education has arrived is now a matter of controversy, both inside and outside Russian education.

Dr. Cyril James, of McGill University, visiting the Soviet Union recently, recalled that curricula the experience of Canadian war veterans gave them added maturity. Perhaps, he hinted, working between high school and university is not a bad thing.

But this and the introduction of labor into the lower school years is still a matter of confusion, I found. Some teachers privately complained that the lack of safety devices on some school machines was a hazard.

The attempt to relate the school to life has resulted in Grades 10 and 11 students attending school for only three days a week. On three other days, they spend four hours daily at a job.

How much Premier Khrushchev has succeeded in eliminating the "beloruchki" is something which can only be determined after two or three years of experiment with the new curricula.

VANCOUVER (CP) — CHEK TV of Victoria told the Board of Broadcast Governors Friday it has been greatly harassed by a campaign of rumor and defamatory fiction about its advertising sales.

"No advertising medium can stand up indefinitely to the attack of slander which only fear and malice can inspire and which we have suffered and are suffering," said counsel M. L. T. Drake.

He spoke at a Special BBG inquiry into alleged commercial practices in Greater Vancouver said to be in contravention to undertakings given by CHEK.

Complaints had been made to the board alleging that CHEK had solicited local advertising from Vancouver area businesses since an increase in power brought its signal into Vancouver.

CHEK representatives said the only advertising they had solicited in Vancouver was from firms with interests in CHEK's coverage area of Vancouver Island.

Mr. Drake said the station had been put to the trouble and expense of three hearings since January and had suffered damage to its business as a result.

Earlier two Vancouver advertising salesmen testified they were approached by CHEK concerning employment.

TO BE HAD
Jerry Altman, a salesman for radio station CKNW, said he was approached by David Armstrong, president of CHEK, last March and was told "business was there to be had in Vancouver."

Mr. Altman said he asked Mr. Armstrong what the BBG would say.

"Mr. Armstrong said he would look after that," Mr. Altman said.

VANCOUVER — Irina Rebrin, 33-year-old UBC lecturer ordered deported more than a year ago, will probably lecture at the university this year on a monthly basis.

University officials say they cannot offer her employment on the usual annual basis because her appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada against her deportation has yet to be heard. The department of Slavonic studies has work for her because of heavy student enrollment in Russian.

Hollywood Progress Erases Landmark

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Shed a tear for Los Angeles' Paramount Theatre, soon to vanish in the name of progress.

This week an auctioneer gavelled away its mighty pipe organ and other fixtures in preparation for the advent of the wreckers.

Many a Saturday afternoon of my youth was lost watching the wonders of that vast stage. I can remember a slim crooner named Bing Crosby playing the professor and singing "boo-hoo-boo" to a classroom of chorus girls.

Years later, I recall a vocalist in the Tommy Dorsey band named Frank Sinatra singing in a pinpoint spotlight while the darkened theatre remained hushed.

HAD THE BEST
Those were the post-vaudiville days when every first-run movie house had its own stage shows. The Paramount had the best.

Now the stage shows have disappeared. The Paramount, opened in 1929 by the late Sid Grauman, as the biggest theatre in town, ended playing rock 'n' roll shows and horror bills.

It will be replaced by a 35-story office building.

Marco Wolf, who operated the Paramount from the late 1920s until 1952, was the first to hire big-name performers for movie houses.

"They all worked for us," he said, "from Mae Murray and Julian Eltinge to Eddie Cantor and Al Jolson."

Prize money and trophies will be awarded for the biggest salmon, the runner-up and hidden weight at the home of Frank Bradley, 2337 Wesley Place, Victoria, after the weigh-ins.

Right Language But Wrong Place

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'm happy," said New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, "to be in San Francisco." He said it in Spanish. But it would have been wrong in any language.

He was standing on the steps of the Los Angeles city hall, taking part in the local celebration of Mexican Independence Day.

Poker Fees Detailed

City Sports Club Operation Bared

Operation of the Sports Club, 654 Yates Street, was explained yesterday in the trial of William Plotnikoff in city police court on a charge of keeping a common gaming house.

James Alfred Whan, accountant, said the premises are rented by Victoria Billiards and Sports Association Ltd., an incorporated holding company with two shareholders owning all contents. The Sports Club uses all facilities.

George Barber, one of the two partners in the controlling company, said he and partner Edward Unger were also two of the three Sports Club managers.

The 400 or so members of the club were not shareholders but paid fees "for playing poker."

Mr. Barber said that under the Criminal Code management was permitted to charge not more than 10 cents an hour or 50 cents a day for the privilege of playing. However, 25 cents is charged every half-hour.

Mr. Barber said 10 cents of this was the allowed charge;

Both witnesses said they assured themselves before having anything to do with the club that it was run on a strictly legal basis; in fact, the premises were visited regularly by city detectives.

Magistrate William Ostler reserved judgment until Sept. 27, when charges against 16 men of being "found in" at the club will be heard.

View Royal Residents Hopping Mad Over Log Booms

View Royal residents are "hopping mad" about plans for a booming ground at the northern end of Esquimalt Harbor, Mrs. Mary Fraser, 85 Norquay Road, said last night.

Booms in that area will devalue a number of $15,000 to $20,000 homes, prevent such pastimes as swimming, boating and water skiing, will create an unfavorable odor and result in destruction of piers and retaining walls by deadheads, she said.

"I learned about it by chance two days ago from a government official and I understand that Sooke Lake Lumber plan to start driving pilings next week," said the angry housewife.

"I told a lot of my neighbors about it and we plan to take some kind of action against it."

Mrs. Fraser said that an announcement of the company's intention to use the area for booming grounds was published in the newspaper for four weeks in a row this spring but that it was "buried in some classified page and none of us knew anything about it."

She wasn't sure what View Royal residents would do to oppose the project at this late date but said "we'll do something."

It was the Greater Victoria Mill Owners' Association, a co-operative of all the sawmills in Victoria, and not the Sooke Lake company (an association member) that applied for use of the upper harbor as a storage ground, said Newton Cameron, president of Sooke Lake Lumber Ltd.

It would be used by various sawmills.

"We like to think of the area as suitable for both recreation and industry," he said. "There'll never be that many logs in there that people can't get around."

"After all, there are logs stored in Cadboro Bay occasionally right in front of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club and nobody complains about them."

Logs are also stored in the kirk waters in the Gorge and in West Bay near Work Point," he said.

Captain Discovery a Lady —Not a Gallant Sailor

Provincial Archivist Never Heard of Him

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Captain Discovery, symbol of Vancouver Island's new slogan which is under fire from Victoria Jaycees, was a lady with a heart of oak and a copper-sheathed bottom.

Spurred by criticism from Jaycees who want the retention of George I. Warren's famous "Follow the Birds to Victoria" slogan, Victoria and Island Publicity Commissioner William Hawkins said yesterday:

"At the risk of appearing pedantic . . . I would like to point out that Captain Discovery was an authentic character. He was a gallant gentleman, an officer of the Queen, of a Royal Navy captain named Discovery in connection with the history of B.C."

Circumnavigate Island

"I am quite sure that it relates to Captain George Vancouver's ship, HMS Discovery, the first ship to sail up the inside passage and circumnavigate the Island," he said.

HMS Discovery was 99 feet long, weighed 330 tons and was a fully-rigged sloop of war. It carried a crew of 100.

And of course Discovery was no gentleman — ships are always feminine in gender.

Along on the voyage with HMS Discovery was HMS Chatham. According to records, Discovery Island and Chatham Island, close together offshore from Oak Bay, commemorate the event, as does Discovery Passage between

Tourists Encouraged

Mr. Hawkins added that the old slogan—"Follow the Birds to Victoria"—was resented by up-island centres and that the new slogan, describing Vancouver Island as Canada's "Treasure Island," encourages tourists to the entire Island.

"Perhaps it might be said that we have lost a slogan and gained an Island," he commented.

Peter Forward, past-president of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce took issue with Mr. Hawkins' figures showing increases in the tourist business.

"The increase in business cannot be attributed to the new slogan," he said. "It hasn't been in use long enough to have any effect."

Mr. Forward pointed out that a number of billboards along the Pacific coast, from California through Washington, still feature Mr. Warren's "Follow the Birds to Victoria" slogan.

"Victoria is certainly the centre that attracts tourists to Vancouver Island," he said. "The overflow reaches up to Island. Apart from Victoria, in Campbell River with its fishing is the only well-known tourist centre."

The tourist promotion committee of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce is conferring with Victoria Chamber of Commerce on the battle of the slogans and will prepare a report and a brief.

A possible solution was suggested anonymously yesterday by a girl who phoned The Daily Colonist . . .

"Follow the Birds to Treasure Island."

Civic Centre Rally Topic

Saanich council's plan to build a $1,000,000 civic centre on Douglas Street, near Swan Lake, will be the main topic at a meeting of Prospect Lake and District Ratepayers' Association, to be held Monday night.

Executive of the association recently attacked the scheme after hearing addresses by Reeve George Chatterton, who favors the plan, and Coun. Leslie Passmore, only member of the council who is opposed to it. The meeting will be held in Prospect Lake community hall.

College of Music Here Symphony Society Target

Victoria Symphony Society announced last night that it will press for establishment of a College of Music at Victoria University.

The announcement came in a letter outlining the promotion of Symphony Week—which starts Sunday—and enlisting the support of all society members "for our expressed desire to work for a college of music for Victoria."

President Jack Barraclough said in the letter the project was "entirely logical and feasible . . . and no finer location than Victoria could be found for it."

Elaborating on these statements, Mr. Barraclough said last night he felt the establishment of a full-fledged college of music as part of the growing Victoria University was "essential" to the achievement of the goal of a professional symphony orchestra.

ONLY AS GOOD
"A symphony orchestra is only as good as the money that is spent on it . . . and we are not going to keep our orchestra if we don't give the people in it things to do," he said.

He said Victoria Symphony Orchestra has proved it can accomplish more than the goals it set itself 20 years ago, when it was first formed, and now needs a new "clear goal for the future."

OVER 2,000
"Our symphony orchestra last season had over 2,000 season ticket holders giving us the highest percentage of population paying to go to our concerts of any city in Canada. To achieve the same percentage Vancouver would have three times as many season ticket-holders as it has now, Toronto six times and Montreal eight times as many," said Mr. Barraclough.

"I hope the idea of establishing a college of music here will catch on," said Mr. Barraclough. "This is a cultural centre. But we would not have had a university here if the people hadn't demanded it."

STUMBLING BLOCK
Willard Ireland, vice-chairman of Victoria University Council, said the establishment of costly duplication of services recently made available at UBC might provide a stumbling block to the Symphony Society proposal.

"However, we have always been hopeful of establishing specialized facilities of this kind here, and if there is a demonstrable need for a college of music in Victoria then it can certainly be done," said Mr. Ireland.

GOOD IDEA
Prof. Robert Wallace, acting principal, said the idea of a music college was a good one which fitted into the future development of Victoria University in the whole field of fine arts.

UBC brought Prof. G. Welton Marquis from the U.S. when it set up the first chair of music at the mainland university last fall. The first class was enrolled for a BA degree in music last September, and a second class will begin this month.

University of Victoria
Surgical, Medical Plan
Open to 1,400 Students

Nearly 1,400 University of Victoria students will have the opportunity to sign up for a prepaid surgical and medical plan costing each student $10 a year.

Prof. Robert Wallace, acting principal, said last night arrangements were recently completed with B.C. Medical Services Inc. The experimental plan for university students will more than halve the costs of providing coverage for students over 19 who can no longer be covered as dependents.

UBC president Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie said in Vancouver yesterday an almost identical plan will provide coverage for students at the mainland university.

UBC, which already provides the largest and most comprehensive health service of any university in the Commonwealth, will enjoy some extras made possible by the existence of its own small hospital on the campus.

Victoria University students when registering this week were given forms to fill in for the additional coverage provided by MSI.

Representing City
Representing Victoria at Canadian Education Association conference in Toronto this week will be school superintendent John Gough.

22,364 Pupils To Date

Principals of all schools in Greater Victoria this week sent in their latest enrolment figures, boosting the previously announced 22,324 by about 40.

School officials said yesterday the new total of 22,364 will likely climb "steadily but slowly" until the end of September when new arrivals level off. Enrolment now stands at more than 900 above last year's total.

Organizations interested in citizenship are invited to send representatives to the conference.

Two-Car Crash Victim's Death Makes Nine in Area

Injured in a two-car crash at Cook and Fort Streets Wednesday evening, Mrs. Gertrude B. Buckler, 67, 1015 Collinson, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday.

She was thrown to the pavement from her car when it collided with another driven by Ernest E. Marshall, 958 Victoria, who with passenger John E. Boyle, 2375 Rosario, suffered minor injuries.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I work in a factory. My foreman is stealing merchandise by the case. I have seen him put the stuff in his car on three separate occasions. I'm not the only one who knows it. Several people in my department have made some comments. Nobody wants to say anything because they might get into trouble.

I'm sure the man is selling the car when their presence on the road is a danger to others. —one of the big, expensive MARTIN L. OF MICHIGAN.

My wife says to keep my mouth shut and mind my own business. I feel like a heel because this guy is robbing the company and I'm too chicken to report him. What would you do in my place? —L.M.

Dear L.M.: I'd go directly to the man and tell him you've seen him stealing merchandise for quite some time. Make it clear you don't want to report him but you will if he hauls out anything more.

I do not agree with your wife that it's not your business. When you sit by and pretend not to see criminal practices you are avoiding your moral responsibility. It's not enough to be for what is right you must be against what is wrong. And what's more, you ought to be willing to put your mouth up where your principals are.

Dear Ann Landers: Your answer to Worried, whose 83-year-old grandma drove like a hot-rodder, seemed weak. Why pass the buck to the family doctor to ground her? Let the state do it.

Many people don't know that almost every state has an agency that will re-examine the fitness of a person (young or old) to operate a motor vehicle.

When reckless drivers, suspected drunks, speeding teenagers or feeble old folks are spotted, the licence number should be sent to the Secretary of State, driver's licence division, with a report. The machinery will then be put in motion to interview the driver. The state will suspend or revoke the licence if the need is indicated.

This is not snitching, it's a public service. People do not belong behind the wheel of a Dear Ann Landers: I never knew a girl could get into so much trouble trying to do a good deed. Please help me out of this horrible mess.

My girl friend Bernice is very sweet. She's quiet and hard to know, and I'm beginning to think she has a sly side that no one would guess. I felt sorry for Bernice because she didn't have a date to a big dance three weeks ago. I had to go out of town with my folks so I asked my boy friend to do me a favor and take Bernice.

Well, Sid and Bernice have been sticking together, like glue ever since. She keeps thanking me for fixing her up and says "You'll never know how you've changed my life!"

Well, my life is changed, too, and I don't like it. How can I get my boy friend back? —BIG HEARTED NUT.

Dear Big Hearted: You can't lock up a guy and put blinders on his eyes so he won't see anyone else. If after one date, Bernice was able to do such a complete job of spiriting away your boy friend, he was mighty ripe for the picking.

If it weren't Bernice, it would soon be someone else. Forget about Sid, and cast about in other waters.

Confidential to BOILING POINT: Simmer down. An announcement is not the same as an invitation and it does not mean you must send a gift. It merely lets you know the hitching took place.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before you marry — Is It Love or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

What's Cooking!

Myths and Fallacies

Man's struggles down through the ages in the realm of food have not been without humorous episodes and myths.

Beginning with the garden of Eden, the story of the apple and its consequences are well known and tales have been woven about apples ever since. The ancient Norsemen believed that apples were the rejuvenating food of the Gods. According to the Norse myth the goddess of Iduna kept a box of this rosy fruit and whenever the gods got that tired old feeling they helped themselves to the apples and were young again.

GOOD LUCK

Take the humble bean around which are woven superstition and good-luck. The Romans believed the bean a symbol of good luck. Beans were mixed with other grains when sown to insure a good harvest—and to drive the evil spirits from the house, the father would rise at midnight, fill his mouth with beans then spit them out behind him one at a time repeating nine times—"with these beans I rid myself of thee" . . . in other words he spilled the beans.

FALLACIES

"Wife quick, some cabbage boil."

That I may rid me of this seedy feeling."

Cabbage has more myths and fallacies woven around it than any other vegetable. The ancient Egyptians built altars to it and worshipped it as a god. Hippocrates, the father of medicine, prescribed boiled cabbage for colic while others taught it would prevent paralysis.

Cato firmly believed that the use the Romans made of cabbage was the means by which they were able during six hundred years to do without the assistance of physicians whom they had expelled from the country. We know now that cabbage is one of our best vegetables, providing vitamin C in good measure.

MILDNESS

Lentils were supposed to induce mildness in the most savage disposition while beets also had a composing effect on the excited individual and if horse-radish is passed with the dish away goes your rheumatism, dropsy and palsy.

MEDICINAL

Since ancient times the carrot has been considered as possessing remarkable medicinal qualities as well as making your hair curl. It was thought to be a valuable antidote against poisons of every kind and was supposed to purify the blood. Today carrots are valued as one of the cheapest and most valuable of the protective vegetables.

ROYAL LETTUCE

Lettuce in early times was considered too delicate for any but those of royal blood. And it was supposed to make you drowsy.

"Many old fallacies abound about herbs too. Basil was planted with the belief a house surrounded with it would be blessed. It is a sacred house, hold plant of India and Italian young men think so much of it they hang a sprig of it over the ear when they go courtin'."

Caraway puts roses in the cheeks of pale-faced maidens—seven large potato chips provide a hundred calories.

placed by the milk in the dairy to keep it sweet; parsley, the green spring that decorates our plates, once crowned man and if you are given to nightmares put a bunch of rosemary under your bed to dispel bad dreams and didn't Hercules wear a crown of it on special occasions.

Purple Tones Lead In Autumn Fashions

Court Circular
Sept. 13
No court circular was issued today in London.

Victoria, B.C.
Sept. 17
GOVERNMENT HOUSE
His Honor, Frank MacKenzie, Lieutenant Governor, and Mrs. Ross will have His Worship the Mayor of Nelson and Mrs. T. S. Shorthouse as luncheon guests at Government House today.

Short, short skirts, fall cloche hats, suits trimmed lavishly in fur, and shades of violet, purple, lilac, lavender and blue-grape in everything, told the fall fashion story at Eaton's autumn showing in the Victoria Room yesterday.

The show, to be repeated this afternoon, provides a vibrant forecast of a colorful winter season to come, with black being edged out in favor of the purple tones, the moss greens and golds.

The fall suit story was possibly never presented here with more variety.

There was elegance in fur and braid trimming and in the fabrics. Two standouts were designed by Jack Clarke of Dublin—one a lipstick-red with short jacket could be worn with or without a contour belt giving it a two-way look; and the other in a shade called green tea had a tie collar, slim skirt and three-quarter-length jacket. Another striking suit had a plain golden wool jacket with softly pleated skirt woven in plaid of gold and brown.

Most dazzling of all was Nona Damaske in a magnificently fringed gown of white crepe, jazz era brought up to date, designed with cross-over neckline and low back.

An ensemble from Switzerland was the most lavish of the parade with a price tag of $600. Gail Miller modelled the ice-blue satin evening coat and the exquisite strapless short formal in shades of French blue chignon, the skirt lit by crystal hand-embroidered flowers.

Ida Clarkson commented the fast-moving show. Mannequins were Nona Damaske, Gail Miller, Vivi Peterson, Pat Olso, Phyllis Brebner, Hilary Dawe, Sharon MacDonald, and small Anita Dodd.

MUSTY ODOR

If your suitcases haven't been used for some time and have been stored in a cupboard in the cellar, chances are that they'll have a musty odor about them when you open them up before your next trip. To combat this, wash the inside with a solution of vinegar and water in equal parts, and leave the suitcase open in the sun for a while. If the odor persists, spray oil of lavender inside.

SHOW STOPPERS

First there was dark-haired Gail Miller in a frock with matte jersey bodice and three-quarter sleeves which draped softly into a blue-grape box pleated taffeta skirt. Her evening wear.

Great Grandmother Sends Wedding Cable

Pink gladiolus and white chrysanthemums decorated St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, for the wedding of Marilyn Carol Barton, daughter of Mrs. William Trace, Doncaster Drive, and Stuart Joseph Baird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Baird, Sumas Street.

Rev. Canon Hywel J. Jones officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. William Trace, chose a ballerina-length dress of nylon lace in rose-point design. The basque bodice had a scooped neckline and lily point sleeves. A large bow at back of the waistline had streamers to the hemline of the full, swirling skirt. A dainty coronet of lace outlined in seed pearls held her tiered veil of illusion and she carried an arm bouquet of Johanna Hill and white roses. A single strand of pearls was her only jewelry.

The bride's sisters, Joanne Barton and Louise Trace and the groom's sister, Diane Baird, were the attendants. They wore ballerina-length dresses of turquoise brocade with chiffon overskirts and veiled hats to match. Their bouquets of deep yellow gladiolus and ivy were tied with turquoise ribbon.

Mr. Ross Baird was groomsmen for his brother and Mr. Eric Tihonen and Mr. Bill Senft showed guests to pews marked with white heather tied with white ribbon.

A cable from the bride's great grandmother in Egham, Surrey, England, was read at the reception following in the Sir William Wallace room at Holyrood House. The bride's mother made the three-tiered cake, topped with Johanna Hill roses and surrounded in tulle. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, for that centred the bride's table. Motoring to California on honeymoon the new Mrs. Baird wore a beige rajah silk sheath dress, beige check mohair topcoat and velvet hat to match. Accessories were in black patent leather and a green orchid was pinned to her coat. They will reside at 1125 Hillside.

Miss Rose Marie O'Brien of Victoria was graduated from Eastern Air Lines flight attendant training school in Miami, Florida, and has started her career as an EAL stewardess. Dr. Charles Borden with a party of eight will dig deeper at the Fraser River canyon site, north of Hope, B.C., 100 miles east of Vancouver, where last summer they uncovered traces of five ancient human occupations.

The oldest of these, of proven date, was 6,200 B.C. and there were signs of an occupation of perhaps 7,000 B.C. The research may show that the Indians of the B.C. coast came from the south, not from Alaska, because an ice sheet covering the interior in those prehistoric areas retreated from south to north.

Since the ice age is placed at 10,000 B.C., the scientists will know they have solved the puzzle if they find that the oldest occupation matches that period.

Excavation to a depth of 32 feet at the canyon site has revealed that the occupants were not shore dwellers, but inlanders who hunted mammoths, bison, camels, wild horses and other big game.

"We also hope to determine a date when these Indians changed from hunting and food-gathering to a seashore mode of life based on abundant fish supplies," said Dr. Borden.

Outwardly, the Hong Kong authorities do not recognize the existence of illegal immigration. But the colony's population is still increasing by 100 a day—discounting natural increase.

RICE BOWL
Why the continued movement away from the communes of Kwangtung, the rice bowl of south China and one of the mainland's richest fishing, pig-raising and vegetable growing areas?

A U.S. Information Service report tells of an interview with a young Communist peasant and Communist Youth League member, Lin Ping-Ken, who took part in a successful mass escape from a commune in Kwangtung.

Lin, 21, told how the Communists at first allotted all members of his family nearly an acre of farmland apiece, gave them good rice rations and provided time off to fish and rear poultry for themselves.

But, with the introduction of collective farms, they had to work harder and eat less. Then with the communes hours of work again increased. Food became shorter. Rice rations went down to 5½ ounces a meal, two meals a day.

Lin said that he and some relatives began plotting to escape. "I was so desperate I didn't care about the danger," he said.

Others did not succeed. Fast motor launches of the Communist patrols intercepted them.

Too Much Work; Too Little Food

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Too much work and too little food are still driving the peasants of Kwangtung province into risking escape to Macao or Hong Kong.

In recent weeks, groups ranging from five people in a leaky sampan to three groups totalling 127 in two days fled successfully to Portuguese territory.

Toronto Island Airport To Be Greatly Expanded

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Island airport, a pebble in the sea, is to be greatly expanded to cope with the traffic.

One of Canada's busiest airfields, though never visited by passengers on the major scheduled airlines, it cleared its 1,000,000th fatality-free take-off and landing under transport department supervision June 30.

WESTERN END
The airport, at the western end of Toronto harbor, is the permanent base for about 90 small aircraft including planes moored at an adjoining sea plane base. On busy flights it houses another 40 or more visiting private light planes.

From 6 a.m. to a half hour before sunset the airport is the scene of intensive flying activity. On sunny summer weekends more than 1,000 takeoffs and landings may be recorded in one day.

EXPANSION PLANS
The airport now has two hangars, one for ordinary aircraft and the other for helicopter. Expansion plans call for a new $750,000 hangar with workshops and storage bays recorded.

for 50 aircraft, designed by the Toronto Harbor Commission. A new 4,000-foot runway also is to be constructed.

The transport department's traffic control office reports only 27 accidents, none fatal, since it took over directing traffic operations in 1953.

The six-man control staff is equipped with two microphones, a powerful traffic light signal for planes without radio, two telephones and five radio frequencies. All conversations with pilots are tape-recorded.

Murder an Hour As U.S. Crime Spirals Upward

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 1,500,000 serious or violent crimes last year were committed in the United States in 1959, setting a record, FBI director J. Edgar Hoover reported yesterday.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS
JOHN PAPPENBERGER, DECEASED

GEORGE EMMIE WATT, DECEASED
Creditors and others having claims against the estate of George Emmie Watt, deceased, formerly of 826 Downey Road, Sidney, B.C., are required to send full particulars of such claims to the Montreal Trust Company, 1111 Government Street, Victoria, B.C., on or before the 14th day of October, 1960, after which date the said estate will be distributed having regard only to claims of which the administrators then have received notice.

Texaco Canada Limited hereby gives notice that it has under Section 7 of the said Act, deposited with the Minister of Public Works, at Ottawa, and in the office of the District Registrar of the Land Registry District of Victoria at the Court House, Victoria, British Columbia, a description of the site and plan of Marine Resale Facilities proposed to be built on Lease No. 4427 fronting on original Lots 1295 and 1297 Kingston Street in the City of Victoria.

And take notice that after the expiration of one month from the date of the publication of this notice Texaco Canada Limited will, under Section 7 of the said Act apply to the Minister of Public Works for approval of the said site and plan.

Dated this 14th day of September, 1960.
TEXACO CANADA LIMITED.

Hoover said the over-all total of serious offences last year was one per cent higher than in 1958. But he said that killers, assassins, rapists, robbers, burglars and assorted thieves "committed 69 per cent more serious crimes in 1959 than in 1950 and 128 per cent more such offences than were committed in 1940."

FOUR TIMES
"Crime has been rising four times as fast as population," the FBI director said. "Unless positive steps are taken to check this rising crime trend, this country will face a crime problem of emergency proportions in the years ahead."

Most alarming, he said, is a major increase in juvenile offences.

AUTO THEFT
"In auto theft, persons under 18 made up 64 per cent of all arrests. They represented 52 per cent of the persons arrested for burglary, while 49 per cent of the arrests for larceny and 26 per cent of the arrests for robbery were of young people."

The final 1959 crime report included these statistics:
EVERY HOUR
One murder every hour, one forcible rape every 35 minutes, one robbery every seven minutes, one aggravated assault every four minutes, one burglary, larceny or auto theft every 23 seconds.

Famous Cigar Plants Grabbed by Castro

HAVANA (UPI)—The Cuban government yesterday seized the multi-million dollar tobacco industry, accusing its operators of sabotaging the economic development of the nation.

There was no immediate indication how the seizure would affect the $32,000,000 in leaf tobacco and cigars shipped to the United States each year.

The police seizures included 16 cigar factories, 14 cigar plants and 20 tobacco warehouses. The government charged their production had dropped 15,000,000 units, or nearly 17 per cent, from that of a year ago.

Among the companies seized were brand names known throughout the world to cigar lovers: H. Upmann, Por Larrazabal and Romeo Y Julieta, among others. Most were Cuban-owned but some of the warehouses were directed by U.S. nationals.

The U.S.-owned cigar firm of Calixto Lopez and Company was among those seized. American investment in the company was estimated at $3,000,000.

The new attack on private enterprise coincided with growing discontent with the Fidel Castro regime in the Cuban interior.

Police in Central Cuba were said to have uncovered still another anti-government conspiracy in Ciego de Avila, 45 miles east of the reported center of resistance to Castro in the Escambray Mountains.

RCAF Flyers Crack Shots

CAZAUX, France (UPI)—Royal Canadian Air Force jet flyers won the Allied air forces gunnery competition yesterday for the third consecutive year. The five-man Canadian team (which included FO William MacArthur of Victoria) defeated air force teams from Britain, France, Belgium, Denmark and Holland.

Tobacco Smuggling Seed for Cuba Seized in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Government officials disclosed yesterday they recently broke up an attempt to smuggle U.S. tobacco seed to Cuba where it could have been used to produce about 50,000,000 pounds of cigar leaf for sale in competition with U.S. tobacco.

The agriculture department said the seed shipment from the Cuban embassy here was destined for the Cuban government's National Agrarian Reform Institute in Havana and was seized by customs agents in New York Sept. 3.

NO PERMISSION
Under U.S. law, exports of tobacco seed can be made only with the specific permission of the secretary of agriculture and are limited even then to small quantities for research purposes. No permission had been granted for the shipment to Cuba.

The shipment included two cartons declared for export as barley or grain seed worth $10. Actually, the cartons contained 280 pounds of tobacco seed worth between $13,440 and $18,000, enough to seed 50,000 acres and to produce—at U.S. yields—about 50,000,000 pounds.

SERIOUS EFFECT
The experts said this "could have had a serious effect on American tobacco growers and tobacco markets."

But Ottawa navy headquarters said there was no problem because the Halifax American tobacco growers and Grilse was not commissioned.

West Failure, Says Simonds

Policy Broke Down in Congo, Mid-East

WINNIPEG (CP)—The man who served as chief of the Canadian general staff for five years said here yesterday the failure of the West's basic defence policy was evident in the Congo and the Middle East.

Lt. Gen. Guy Simonds, in Winnipeg to speak to the Graphic Arts Industries Association, said in an interview the H-bomb, to which American and Canadian defence policies were tied, was no good in either the Congo or the Middle East.

"When the policy was formed, the only state to try to follow it was Hungary, was left to its fate."

"All this has been the result of knowledge on the Russian part that we are incapable of dealing with any conventional situation short of the requirement of massive destruction."

The general said he could not agree with the announced plan to form 66 mobile rescue columns across the country. He said "was based on the assumption that several months warning would be given, and this warning time would not exist."

"Today we have the highest per capita unemployment in the world, and one of the lowest physical standards in the world. I say we need conscription."

End to Drinking, Arming Had Better Be Gradual!

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—If Canadians stop drinking or arming, they'd better do it gradually, warns Charlotte Whifton, former mayor of Ottawa.

She told the Canadian Club federal and provincial fiscal systems would collapse if the governments suddenly lost liquor revenues. A similar situation would develop if defence spending was halted suddenly by world-wide disarmament, she said.

Astronauts Willing To Blast Off Now

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—America's seven astronauts said yesterday they would be "willing to go now" on trips into space—if their rocket and capsule also were ready. But they will be "grounded" for at least another four months while tests are completed on their spaceship, a combination Atlas missile and one-ton Mercury capsule.

Happy Traveller Heads for Home

Finally on his way back to homeland of Yugoslavia is 80-year-old Maxim Radin of Oakland, Calif., who put his life savings under hotel bed and then forgot where he had

Belgians Rejoice

Shy King to Marry
Spanish Aristocrat

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The Belgian government Friday announced the engagement of shy King Baudouin, 30, to a blonde Spanish noblewoman two years his senior.

The bride-to-be is Dona Fabiola de Mora y Aragon, 32, twin daughter of the late Count of Mora.

Premier Eysken's disclosure of a secret romance touched off a wave of rejoicing in this kingdom that has not had a queen since beloved Queen Astrid, the king's mother, was killed in a car crash in 1935.

ROYAL RECEPTION

Hundreds of Belgians massed outside the royal palace of Laeken in hopes of viewing Dona Fabiola. But her first appearance was at a royal palace reception last night.

She will meet the press today, but Belgians rushed to buy newspapers and read every morsel of news about her they could find.

CHARITY WORK

They learned she is of noble Spanish lineage, a traveller, a linguist, a tennis player and a musician, has spent much time in charity work and has served as a nurse in an army hospital. Baudouin's chief of cabinet, Rene Lefebvre, said government and palace officials had learned the news with "great surprise."

NEVER LONG

"His majesty surrounded this romance with a veil of secrecy," he said. "It is impossible at this moment to fix a wedding date, but as you all know, royal engagements never last very long." The wedding may take place as early as November.

Lefebvre said he had "not the slightest idea" when the bespectacled king met his bride

SOVIET DEFEATED IN UN
ASSEMBLY MEETS TONIGHTRed Jet Fighter
Nearly Crashes
British Airliner

BERLIN (UPI)—The captain of a British airliner said a Soviet jet fighter buzzed his plane and almost crashed into it yesterday as he was nearing West Berlin with 36 passengers in defiance of Communist threats to Berlin's air links with the west.

Passengers described the incident as "a near miss." The pilot, Capt. James Martin, filed a protest with the four-power Berlin air safety centre as soon as he landed at West Berlin's Tempelhof Airfield.

ON CHARTER

The plane was on charter to carry passengers into and out of Berlin.

The new Communist harassment came only hours after Mayor Willy Brandt warned the Communists against interfering with air traffic to isolated West Berlin. He said he issued the warning to prevent the East from making a "false estimate" of the political situation.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

"It should be recognized that whoever lays their hands on the air traffic to Berlin is playing with fire," he said in a speech in Frankfurt. His speech was believed prompted by Western fears the Soviet were considering harassing action in the three 20-mile-wide air corridors across Communist East Germany.

The stage for such interference could have been set by Maj. Gen. N. F. Zaharov, Berlin's Soviet commandant, who told the allies Tuesday they were "misusing" the air corridors in flying undesirable West Germans into Berlin. Pilots have reported unusual concentrations of Soviet aircraft along the routes.

4,500 FEET

The plane's pilot said he was flying passengers from Innsbruck, Austria, along the Frankfurt-Berlin corridor and was at an altitude of 4,500 feet over the Soviet zone when a Russian plane, making a tight turn to land at Zerbst airfield veered toward his plane.

It was thought at first to be an accident, but Martin said it was a deliberate buzzing and that it was the third time a plane he was flying had been buzzed in recent weeks. Martin said he had been buzzed before but "today was too close for comfort."

BY BICYCLE

"Next time I will travel to Berlin by bicycle," he said. "I really was shaken up."

The four-power Berlin air safety centre to which he protested controls and regulates flights in the corridors to the city. It is one of the four-power bodies on which the Soviets still are represented.

Nation Paying For High Life

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canada, thanks to government policies, is selling off its natural resources so that present-day Canadians may enjoy the high life to which they have become accustomed. Lt. Gen. Guy Simonds, former Canadian army chief of staff, said here Friday night.

Canada is facing the highest unemployment per capita in the world, and unemployment is becoming not a temporary problem but a serious disease, he said.

Prince on Visit

Boarding Canadian Pacific plane at Vancouver is Prince Abdorreza, brother of the Shah of Iran, who is now gunning for grizzly bear, mountain sheep and moose in the Watson Lake area of B.C. He hopes to take home some big game specimens for Tehran museum.

Hungry Canadians
Call from Congo
For More Food

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—The food shortage here is nearing the critical point, with UN forces holding 15 days supplies on hand and a UN officer saying he doesn't know when more food will arrive.

The low supply is affecting particularly the Canadian signals contingent, which is asking Canada to fly in such supplies as dehydrated potatoes, powdered milk and dried apples.

EIGHT DAYS

Canadian supplies are available for about eight days, including field ration packs.

UN ration scales are described at "adequate" from the health standpoint. Capt. Mike Kedziora, Canadian messing officer who "is running against a brick wall" in trying to get supplies, says the scale is not high enough for Canadians who for variety eat more and drink more liquids in hot and humid weather.

THIRD BELOW

The Hungarians had at least six veal meals this week and no potatoes. A two-day caloric scale was at least a third below Canadian standards on a caloric basis.

The hungry Canadians fill up on bananas at two francs each out of the 43 franc daily "pittance" they receive.

The signalmen received 645 francs ($13) Thursday for the first half of September. Most of the Canadians are married and have assigned most of their pay to their families.

Reds
Ready
To Go

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Communist officials from eastern Europe Friday night started preparations to leave the Congo on renewed orders from the new Congolese Army strongman, Col. Joseph Mobutu. He said they must clear out before another nightfall.

Papers were burned in the courtyard of the Czech Embassy. Workmen then nailed covers on big wooden crates.

CARLOADS GO

Three carloads of Soviet officials left the Russian Embassy building. Other cars loaded with suitcases stood in the courtyard. The Russians and their Communist allies had moved into the Congo in a big way following the Congo's independence from Belgium June 30.

OUTSIDE UN

They poured in men and equipment outside the United Nations Congo effort.

The collapse of the Communist venture came as Mobutu moved swiftly to consolidate his power.

ARRESTED?

Congolese troops arrested 20 members of Lumumba's personal staff at Lumumba's luxurious villa and there were reports the disputed premier had been arrested at a hideout in town.

Other reports received in Europe indicated Lumumba may have fled the Congo. But there was no confirmation.

Congo Crisis
Debate Topic

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The security council, over Russia's negative vote, early today summoned the general assembly into emergency session on the Congo crisis.

The assembly was formally convened for 8 p.m. tonight. The decision came after the United States proposed the emergency session.

ILLEGAL DECISION

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin contended that a decision for such an emergency assembly session would be illegal unless all five permanent members of the council voted for it.

The vote was 8 to 2 (Russia and Poland) with France abstaining.

But Zorin made no move to have his negative vote placed on the record as a veto.

RESOLUTION VETOED

U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth made the proposal after Russia vetoed a resolution offered by Tunisia and Ceylon which was designed to avert an assembly showdown between the United States and Russia on the Congo.

Soviet deputy foreign minister Valerian A. Zorin, who cast the veto, accused the United States of demanding the emergency session as a stunt for its "pre-election period." He said it was necessary to convince the American people that the administration had taken a "hard position" and "shown firmness" on the Congo question.

NO LAURELS

"This will not deceive the American people and the special session will not produce any laurels for your propaganda and will bring you no satisfaction," the Russian said. Zorin said he would vote against the proposal. But in this case, Russia had no veto. Under the Acheson-Dulles "uniting for peace" resolution of 1950, the assembly may be called into special session by the vote of any seven members of the security council when action by that body on a war-and-peace question is blocked by a veto of one of its five permanent members.

BLOCK ACTION

Russia's veto, Wadsworth said, "just shows the length to which the Soviet Union will go" to block effective UN action in the Congo.

He repeated an earlier statement that the UN was "at the crossroads" in the Congo and must succeed in its effort.

"The Soviet Union does not want the United Nations to succeed in the Congo because it wants to create a satellite there," Wadsworth said.

The negative Russian vote, which was the 90th time the Soviet Union had used its veto power, killed the resolution. Before voting on the Congolese-Tunisian measure, the council killed a Russian "no confidence" resolution directed against Hammarskjold.

Yukon
Hides
Four

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—An air search for four men missing in northeastern Yukon Territory continued Friday under RCMP supervision.

Missing are John William Fraser, an outfitter from here; guide Norman Mervyn of Mayo, Y.T.; his brother, Gordon, a horse wrangler, and William McDonald of Elsa, Y.T., who went along for the trip.

FORCED LANDING

Their nine-horse pack train left Mayo Aug. 18 and was due at Bonnet Plume Lake Aug. 31, but never arrived.

Meanwhile, a Wheeler Airlines plane made a forced landing Friday 50 miles southeast of Frobisher, N.W.T., because of engine trouble.

Pilot Ken Dempster of St. Jovite, Que., and the passengers, five civilians and two RCAF men, escaped injury and were returned to Frobisher by an RCMP Otter.

Atlas Soars
5,000 Miles
In Cone Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States Air Force successfully fired an Atlas missile 5,000 miles down the Atlantic missile range Friday in a test of a new nose cone designed to better protect hydrogen warheads. The rocket reached peak speeds of 17,000 miles an hour as it raced to a target zone off the South Atlantic Island of Ascension in about 25 minutes.

Two Fugitives
Recaptured

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. (CP)—Two men were recaptured Friday about six hours after they overpowered a guard and escaped from the town jail at Rocky Mountain House.

RCMP said Harold Rustin Gapp, 22, and Darryl Wayne Lowry, 18, were traced by a tracking dog to a farm about 10 miles east of the town.

The men fled the jail on foot, taking with them a .22 calibre rifle.

Special Cabinet Action
Asked on Unemployment

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal Leader Ray Perrault asked Premier Bennett Friday to set up a special cabinet committee to deal with unemployment in B.C. in advance of the next legislature sitting. "The full effect of winter unemployment will be upon us in approximately six weeks," the newly elected member for North Vancouver said in a letter to Mr. Bennett, copies of which went to the press. "The matter cannot wait until the call of the legislature." The cabinet committee should include representatives

Around the Island

Fire Protection Areas Extended By Ratepayers

NORTH COWICHAN—Ratepayers approved the extension of three fire protection areas last Thursday.

They involve the fire departments at Chemainus, Maple Bay and the North Cowichan South End department just north of Duncan.

Results were: Chemainus, 154 yes and eight no; Maple Bay 18 yes and four no; South End, 272 yes and 17 no.

PARKSVILLE—Rapidly taking shape is Parksville's new supermarket being built for Overwaitea Limited.

The large building is being constructed by Qualicum Construction Company and is located adjacent to Parksville fire hall. The plan includes a big parking area and a modern coffee shop.

Tentative date for completion of the building is Nov. 1.

DUNCAN—Dr. and Mrs. Leonard T. Archer will be leaving here tomorrow for Moselle, France, where he will be stationed for four years with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Dr. Archer is the son of Chief Constable George Archer, Vancouver's police chief. They have been staying with Mrs. Archer's parents, Ald. and Mrs. R. K. Cairns.

Better Lighting

PARKSVILLE—Parksville will soon have more and better street lighting following approval of a plan for the installation of 23 new-type fluorescent lamps and the re-location of 10 of the older-type lamps in the village.

Council gave authorization to the B.C. Power Commission to go ahead with street lighting plan after being told the estimated cost was $1,150.

The sum of $1,380 had been appropriated in this year's budget for the protection of persons and property and it is now possible that additional lighting may be installed at a later date due to the lower estimate.

PORT ALBERNI—Council has offered the provincial government use of city equipment to ensure that road markings are provided for Stamp Ave. as winter driving conditions develop.

So far, according to a report from Mayor Loran Jordan, no reply has been received from the deputy minister of highways on the matter. He said that reports had been received from reliable sources that it is not the intention of the government to mark the road, now nearing completion, before spring because equipment is not available.

"The city equipment may not be of the calibre of government machines but it could do Stamp Ave. and the road all the way to Parksville in a couple of days," the Mayor said. He contended that a hazard will exist in wet and foggy weather as drivers have come to depend on the white centre line.

Sector Plan Adopted

PARKSVILLE—The sector plan is being adopted again this year by the Anglican Church in the Parksville district and the campaign will get under way at the first training dinner meeting on Sept. 21.

The plan was very successful last year, not only from a financial aspect but from a spiritual point of view also. Attendance at services increased 31 per cent during the first six months of the plan compared to the same period the previous year. The Church income increased to more than twice as much during the same period, from $1,535 to $3,365.

DUNCAN—Hillcrest Lumber Co. of Cowichan Lake was fined $10 in traffic court here yesterday for allowing a truck on the road with an overhang four feet, three inches more than allowed.

An official pleaded guilty for the firm.

Old-Timers Recall Past At Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—The days of yesteryear were discussed during a two-day stay here when Charles Taylor and Albert Waring renewed acquaintances in their home district.

Mr. Taylor, a member of the Alberni Valley's oldest family, is now living in Victoria. He came here first at the age of six years in 1884, attended the district's first school and has grandchildren attending school here now.

Mr. Waring was born here in 1888, the youngest of a family of 12. He recalls school days in Beaver Creek and still treasures a roll of conduct presented for good conduct in the old log schoolhouse in 1898.

He has lived in California for many years and has retired after working for years in the carpenter trade.

Car Skids, Rolls Over

DUNCAN—An estimated $250 damage was done to a car driven by Graeme W. Peck, 18, of Robson Road, when it rolled over yesterday and skidded off the Cowichan Lake Road at Tansor railway crossing.

Kiwanis ambulance was called but not needed. The car came to a stop on its top.

New Town to Grow In Northern Woods

Cleared from Crown Land 12 miles north of Summit Lake, about 40 miles from Prince George, a new town will grow up in British Columbia's northern forests, it was announced yesterday.

A provincial cabinet order made the announcement of this new idea, "first of its kind in the province," according to Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston.

Part of the Crooked River forest reserve was lifted by the order to allow establishment of the town, being set up mainly for from 60 to 80 loggers and their families. Ultimately 100 families may be involved.

Sharing in the project will be a half-dozen logging operators, education, health and welfare officials and the provincial lands and forests department.

Government approval also was given to two new northern B.C. gas pipeline projects.

One of these, a seven-mile gas pipeline to be built by B.C. Power Commission from a well seven miles outside Fort Nelson to its generating station in the town, is the first such venture by the public utility.

One condition under which the PUC took over the area from Northland Utilities Ltd. was that it provide gas service to about 200 customers in Fort Nelson.

Second pipeline, to be built by Gas Trunk Line of B.C., is a 100-mile line from Fort Nelson to Chetwynd, with branches from Taylor to gas fields at Boundary Lake and to Laprise fields near the Alberta border.

Fixed Court Charge Shocks Magistrate At Duncan Hearing

DUNCAN—Magistrate A. C. Sutton yesterday was shocked when it was alleged his court was "fixed."

RCMP Cpl. Gordon Irvine said a Victoria real estate salesman claimed "the court is fixed" during an argument with a policeman who stopped him.

Bill the salesman, Ken Lonsdale Wright, emphatically denied making the charge.

Wright angrily asserted that he had the right to have the hearing of his speeding charge waived to Victoria. The magistrate "snapped back" that "it could be transferred only 'at the discretion of this court'."

Wright pleaded not guilty to a charge of speeding at 73 in a 60 zone near Mill Bay on the Trans-Canada Highway Sept. 2. He changed his plea when told the case would be remanded and heard another day.

"You're allowed to speed to pass, aren't you?" he asked. "No," said Magistrate Sutton. "Driving at 73 miles an hour was 'really crazy,' said the magistrate. He added he believes that 60 miles an hour is a 'crazy' speed. When attention on the site of the present Old Town pound with the SPCA in charge.

School Enrolment Higher at Qualicum

QUALICUM BEACH—Enrolment in the schools of School District 69 (Qualicum) total 1,112, an increase of 47 in the number registered at the end of the school year in June.

Figures for the various schools are Qualicum Beach high school, 352; Parksville high school, 172; Qualicum Beach elementary school, 116; Parksville elementary school, 175; Bowser, 31; Errington, 65; French Creek, (Coombs) 37; Hilliers, 28; Horne Lake, 13; Little Qualicum, 51; and Nanoose, 72.

Dog Pound Difficulty Seems Insurmountable

ALBERNI—J. E. Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs, said in a letter to council, that he knew of no method of overcoming the legal difficulty involved in plans for a joint dog pound here.

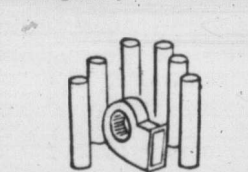

A copy of the letter was sent to Port Alberni council which, with the Alberni council, had planned a joint operation on the site of the present Old Town pound with the SPCA in charge.

The fact that the Alberni site is not within the boundaries of either city, posed a legal problem under the present Municipal Act. Mr. Brown said that he understands that legislation is to be introduced in the next session to remove the impediment to plans.

View Royal Residents Hopping Mad Over Log Booms

View Royal residents are "hopping mad" about plans for a booming ground at the northern end of Esquimalt Harbor, Mrs. Mary Fraser, 85 Norquay Road, said last night. Booms in that area will devalue a number of $15,000 to $20,000 homes, prevent such pastimes as swimming, boating and water skiing, will create an unfavorable odor and result in destruction of piers and retaining walls by deadheads, she said. "I learned about it by chance two days ago from a government official and I understand that Sooke Lake Lumber plan to start driving pilings next week," said the angry housewife. "I told a lot of my neighbors about it and we plan to take some kind of action against it." Mrs. Fraser said that an announcement of the company's intention to use the area for booming grounds, was published in the newspaper for four weeks in a row this spring but that it was "buried in some classified page and none of us knew anything about it."

She wasn't sure what View Royal residents would do to oppose the project at this late date but said "we'll do something." It was the Greater Victoria Mill Owners' Association, a co-operative of all the sawmills in Victoria, and not the Sooke Lake company (an association member) that applied for use of the upper harbor as a storage ground, said Newton Cameron, president of Sooke Lake Lumber Ltd. It would be used by various sawmills. "We like to think of the area as suitable for both recreation and industry," he said. "There'll never be that many logs in there that people can't get around." After all, there are logs stored in Cadboro Bay occasionally right in front of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club and nobody complains about them. Logs are also stored in Selkirk Waters in the Gorge and in West Bay near Work Point," he said.

Seeing Double at St. Pat's

Causing some confusion at St. Patrick's School this term are these five sets of twins. ### $20,000 Project Unveiled

To halt the council's plans the petition must be signed by a majority of ratepayers representing at least half the value of the properties involved.

Details of the four-point scheme, with costs repayable over a 20-year period:

SANITARY SEWER

Construction of a sanitary sewer and a storm sewer at an estimated cost of $6,841.20. Installation of a six-inch water main, estimated to cost $2,244.

BLACKTOP ROAD

Construction of a blacktop road, 23-feet wide with concrete curbs on each side, to cost some $9,165.

Laying of a concrete sidewalk, four feet wide on the east side of the roadway, estimated to cost $1,224.

College of Music Here Symphony Society Target

Victoria Symphony Society announced last night that it will press for establishment of a College of Music at Victoria University.

The announcement came in a letter outlining the promotion of Symphony Week—which starts Sunday—and enlisting the support of all society members "for our expressed desire to work for a college of music for Victoria."

ENTIRELY LOGICAL

President Jack Barraclough said in the letter the project was "entirely logical and feasible... and no finer location than Victoria could be found for it."

Elaborating on these statements, Mr. Barraclough said last night he felt the establishment of a full-fledged college of music as part of the growing Victoria University was "essential" to the achievement of the goal of a professional symphony orchestra.

ONLY AS GOOD

"A symphony orchestra is only as good as the money that is spent on it... and we are not going to keep up our orchestra if we don't give the people in it things to do," he said.

He said Victoria Symphony orchestra has proved it can accomplish more than the goals it set itself 20 years ago, when it was first formed, and now needs a new "clear goal for the future."

OVER 2,000

"Our symphony orchestra last season had over 2,000 season ticket holders giving us the highest percentage of population paying to go to our concerts of any city in Canada. To achieve the same percentage Vancouver would have three times as many season ticket-holders as it has now, Toronto six times and Montreal eight times as many," said Mr. Barraclough.

"I hope the idea of establishing a college of music here will catch on," said Mr. Barraclough. "This is a cultural centre. But we would not have had a university here if the people hadn't demanded it."

Willard Ireland, vice-chairman of Victoria University Council, said the establishment of costly duplication of services recently made available at UBC might provide a stumbling block to the Symphony Society proposal.

"However, we have always been hopeful of establishing specialized facilities of this kind here, and if there is a demonstrable need for a college of music in Victoria then it can certainly be done," said Mr. Ireland.

Prof. Robert Wallace, acting principal, said the idea of a music college was a good one which fitted into the future development of Victoria University in the whole field of fine arts.

UBC brought Prof. G. Welton Marquis from the U.S. when it set up the first chair of music at the mainland university last fall. The first class was enrolled for a BA degree in music last September, and a second class will begin this month.

Registration of delegates will start at 9 a.m. and the first of the business sessions at 9:30 a.m. All aspects of citizenship will be discussed. Delegates will come from all parts of Vancouver Island. During the afternoon a National Film Board film, "One Million Five Hundred Thousand of Us," will be shown. Organizations interested in citizenship are invited to send representatives to the conference.

Provincial Archivist Never Heard of Him

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Captain Discovery, symbol of Vancouver Island's new slogan which is under fire from Victoria Jaycees, was a lady with a heart of oak and a copper-sheathed bottom.

Spurred by criticism from Jaycees who want the retention of George I. Warren's famous "Follow the Birds to Victoria" slogan, Victoria and Island Publicity commissioner William Hawkins said yesterday:

"At the risk of appearing pedantic... I would like to point out that Captain Discovery was an authentic character. He was a gallant gentleman, an officer of the Queen. He was an authentic, able, distinguished member of the Royal Navy. He was a gentleman of definite distinction and naval accomplishment who represented the Royal Navy on the west coast.

"Discovery Passage and Discovery Island were named after him and he was far from being a pirate."

Mr. Hawkins referred the Colonist to Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, but Mr. Ireland said he had never heard of a Royal Navy captain named Discovery in connection with the history of B.C.

Circumnavigate Island

Quadra Island and Vancouver Island.

Mr. Hawkins contended that increases in Victoria's tourist business this year speak for the effectiveness of the new slogan and his methods.

"Our tourist business shows a very healthy growth for the three months in 1960," he said. "June was up 11 per cent, July up 40 per cent and August increased 155 per cent in tourist traffic."

He said the Captain Discovery motif had been praised by a number of persons connected with the tourist industry, including John Fisher, Canada's best-known tourist promoter.

Court Upholds Death Penalty For Cook

EDMONTON (CP) — The appellate division of the Alberta Supreme Court Friday unanimously upheld the conviction and death sentence of Robert Raymond Cook, 23, for the murder of his father whose body was found 15 months ago in a rubble-filled garage grease pit at Stettler, Alta.

Also in the pit were the shot and bludgeoned bodies of Cook's wife and five children.

Young Cook was first convicted of murder in December 1959. He won a new trial on appeal and again was convicted and sentenced to be hanged at Fort Saskatchewan jail Oct. 11.

Two Fugitives Recaptured

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. (CP) — Two men were recaptured Friday about six hours after they overpowered a guard and escaped from the town jail at Rocky Mountain House.

RCMP said Harold Rustin Gapp, 22, and Darryl Wayne Lowry, 18, were traced by a tracking dog to a farm about 10 miles east of the town.

The men fled the jail on foot, taking with them a .22-calibre rifle.

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The Belgian government Friday announced the engagement of shy King Baudouin, 30, to a blonde Spanish noblewoman two years his senior.

The bride-to-be is Dona Fabiola de Mora y Aragon, 32, twin daughter of the late Count of Mora.

Premier Eyskens' disclosure of a secret romance touched off a wave of rejoicing in this kingdom that has not had a queen since beloved Queen Astrid, the king's mother, was killed in a car crash in 1935.

ROYAL RECEPTION

Hundreds of Belgians massed outside the royal palace of Laeken in hopes of viewing Dona Fabiola. But her first appearance was at a royal palace reception last night.

She will meet the press today, but Belgians rushed to buy newspapers and read every morsel of news about her they could find.

CHARITY WORK

They learned she is of noble Spanish lineage, a traveller, a linguist, a tennis player and a musician, has spent much time in charity work and has served as a nurse in an army hospital.

Baudouin's chief of cabinet, Rene Lefebvre, said government and palace officials had learned the news with "great surprise."

NEVER LONG

"His majesty surrounded this romance with a veil of secrecy," he said. "It is impossible at this moment to fix a wedding date, but as you all know, royal engagements never last very long." The wedding may take place as early as November.

Lefebvre said he had "not the slightest idea" when the bride-to-be met his bride but said she had been a frequent guest in Belgium and had known the royal family for a long time.

The bride-to-be is of royal lineage with such illustrious forebears as the families of Aragon and Navarra. Another ancestor was Ferdinand De Lesseps.

Quebec Party Picks Leader

QUEBEC (CP) — Yves Provost, 52-year-old corporation lawyer, Friday was chosen legislative leader of the Union Nationale party. Party members decided at a caucus to hold a leadership convention before June 1961.

They have harassed the court several times since.

Special Cabinet Action Asked on Unemployment

VANCOUVER (CP) — Liberal Leader Ray Perrault asked Premier Bennett Friday to set up a special cabinet committee to deal with unemployment in B.C. in advance of the next legislature sitting.

"The full effect of winter unemployment will be upon us in approximately six weeks," the newly elected member for North Vancouver said in a letter to Mr. Bennett, copies of which went to the press. "The matter cannot wait until the call of the legislature."

The cabinet committee should include representatives

Red Jet Fighter Nearly Crashes British Airliner

BERLIN (UPI) — The captain of a British airliner said a Soviet jet fighter buzzed his plane and almost crashed into it yesterday as he was nearing West Berlin with 36 passengers in defiance of Communist threats to Berlin's air links with the West.

Passengers described the incident as "a near miss." The pilot, Capt. James Martin, filed a protest with the four-power Berlin air safety centre as soon as he landed at West Berlin's Tempelhof Airfield.

ON CHARTER

The plane was on charter to carry passengers into and out of Berlin.

The new Communist harassment came only hours after Mayor Willy Brandt warned the Communists against interfering with air traffic to isolated West Berlin. He said he issued the warning to prevent the East from making a "false estimate" of the political situation.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

"It should be recognized that whoever lays their hands on the air traffic to Berlin is playing with fire," he said in a speech in Frankfurt. His speech was believed prompted by Western fears the Soviet were considering harassing action in the three 20-mile-wide air corridors across Communist East Germany.

The stage for such interference could have been set by Maj. Gen. N. F. Zaharov, Berlin's Soviet commandant, who told the allies Tuesday they were "misusing" the air corridors in flying undesirable West Germans into Berlin. Pilots have reported unusual concentrations of Soviet aircraft along the routes.

4,500 FEET

The plane's pilot said he was flying passengers from Innsbruck, Austria, along the Frankfurt-Berlin corridor and was at an altitude of 4,500 feet over the Soviet zone when a Russian plane, making a tight turn to land at Zerbst airfield veered toward his plane.

Tribes Clash In Nyasaland

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (UPI) — Police reinforcements were deployed in an area near the Mozambique border yesterday to control tribal fighting.

The trouble began a week ago, when a group of Africans forced their way into the tribal court of Chief Tengani and released several prisoners. They have harassed the court several times since.

Prince on Visit

Hungry Canadians Call from Congo For More Food

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — The food shortage here is nearing the critical point, with UN forces holding 15 days supplies on hand and a UN officer saying he doesn't know when more food will arrive.

The low supply is affecting particularly the Canadian signals contingent, which is asking Canada to fly in such supplies as dehydrated potatoes, powdered milk and dried apples.

EIGHT DAYS

Canadian supplies are available for about eight days, including field ration packs. UN ration scales are described as "adequate" from the health standpoint.

Capt. Mike Kedziora, Canadian mess officer who "is running against a brick wall" in trying to get supplies, says the scale is not high enough for Canadians who for variety eat more and drink more liquids in hot and humid weather.

THIRD BELOW

The Canadians had at least six meals this week and no potatoes. A two-day caloric scale was at least a third below Canadian standards on a calorie basis.

The hungry Canadians fill up on bananas at two francs each out of the 43 franc daily "pittance" the UN provides.

The signalmen received 645 francs ($13) Thursday for the first half of September.

Most of the Canadians are married and have assigned most of their pay to their families.

Reds Ready To Go

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Communist officials from eastern Europe Friday night started preparations to leave the Congo on renewed orders from the new Congolese Army strongman, Col. Joseph Mobutu. He said they must clear out before another nightfall.

Papers were burned in the courtyard of the Czech Embassy. Workers then nailed covers on big wooden crates.

CARLOADS GO

Three carloads of Soviet officials left the Russian Embassy building. Other cars loaded with suitcases stood in the courtyard.

The Russians and their Communist allies had moved into the Congo in a big way following the Congo's independence from Belgium June 30.

OUTSIDE UN

They poured in men and equipment outside the United Nations Congo effort.

The collapse of the Communist venture came as Mobutu moved swiftly to consolidate his power.

ARRESTED?

Congolese troops arrested 20 members of Lumumba's personal staff at Lumumba's luxurious villa and there were reports the disputed premier had been arrested at a hideout in town.

Other reports received in Europe indicated Lumumba may have fled the Congo. But there was no confirmation.

Veto Fails In Crisis

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The security council, over Russia's negative vote, early today summoned the general assembly into emergency session on the Congo crisis.

The assembly was formally convened for 8 p.m. tonight. The decision came after the United States proposed the emergency session.

ILLEGAL DECISION

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin contended that a decision for such an emergency assembly session would be illegal unless all five permanent members of the council voted for it.

The vote was 8 to 2 (Russia and Poland) with France abstaining.

But Zorin made no move to have his negative vote placed on the record as a veto.

RESOLUTION VETOED

U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth made the proposal after Russia vetoed a resolution offered by Tunisia and Ceylon which was designed to avert an assembly showdown between the United States and Russia on the Congo.

Zorin, who cast the veto, accused the U.S. of demanding the emergency session as a stunt for its "pre-election period." He said it was necessary to convince the American people that the administration had taken a "hard position" and "shown firmness" on the Congo question.

NO LAURELS

"This will not deceive the American people and the special session will not produce any laurels for your propaganda and will bring you no satisfaction," the Russian said. Zorin said he would vote against the proposal. But in this case, Russia had no veto. Under the Acheson-Dulles "uniting for peace" resolution of 1950, the assembly may be called into special session by the vote of any seven members of the security council when action by that body on a war-and-peace question is blocked by a veto of one of its five permanent members.

BLOCK ACTION

Russia's veto, Wadsworth said, "just shows the length to which the Soviet Union will go" to block effective UN action in the Congo.

He repeated an earlier statement that the UN was "at the crossroads" in the Congo and must succeed in its effort.

"The Soviet Union does not want the United Nations to succeed in the Congo because it wants to create a satellite there," Wadsworth said.

90th NEGATIVE

The negative Russian vote, which was the 90th time the Soviet Union had used its veto power, killed the resolution.

"Before voting on the Ceylonese-Tunisian measure, the council killed a Russian 'no confidence' resolution directed against Dag Hammarskjold."

$30 Attack

Thief Grabs Purse

A youthful purse snatcher made off with about $30 after attacking a young woman last night on Richmond Avenue opposite Victoria University grounds.

Janet Spraggs, in her early 20s, of 1930 Mayfair, told police she was walking home about 9 p.m. after visiting a girl friend when she heard footsteps overtaking her.

She turned around in time to see a youth 14 or 15 years of age about five feet behind her.

The youth lunged for the purse. A struggle followed, the strap broke and the youth ran away with the purse leaving the woman holding the strap.
